Laguna Niguel, CA - As part of its ongoing series of National Dog Breed Day celebrations, TheWoofBook.com announces January 10th as National German Shepherd Day. German Shepherds, loyal and courageous companions, make wonderful family pets. Their reputation for being willing to sacrifice their lives for their human companions is legendary.

Mallory Lahkota, Breed Ambassador for TheWoofBook.com notes, "Even though the German Shepherd is fiercely loyal, gentle and a wonderful family guardian, the breed retains a bit of a standoffish nature, so don't expect them to instantly become friends with just anyone."

German Shepherds belong to the Herding Group and are large dogs, standing 26 inches at the shoulder. In spite of their ruggedness and courageous nature, with their flowing body curves, they are the picture of gracefulness.

Lahkota points out that ?While courage and loyalty may first come to mind when you think of this breed, German Shepherds are also very smart. They are capable of quickly learning commands for many different tasks.?

The German Shepherd breed, along with all the dog breeds recognized by the American Kennel Club, has its own group at TheWoofBook.com. German Shepherd owners and lovers can join this group or a dog groups of their choice by going to <https://thewoofbook.com/groups/GermanShepherds>.
