ChebeUSA, based in Pickerington, Ohio, has commented on the question on whether ostrich oil or emu oil is better in helping with hair growth. They point out that ostrich oil is better than emu oil when it comes to hair growth. Ostrich oil contains high levels of omega 3, 6 and 9 oil, which are capable of supporting the production of collagen and in restoring healthy and supple skin. It has also been observed as a natural moisturizer that can be used for its properties of minimizing wrinkles, lines, and crow's feet. Those who are interested in the characteristics of ostrich oil can take a look at the product found at https://www.amazon.com/PURE-100-OSTRICH-OIL-OZ/dp/B00FVEX9K8/ref=sr_1_4?keywords=blue+feather+ostrich+oil&qid=1578683300&sr=8-4.

Charity Sayers, a spokesperson for ChebeUSA, says, "Please take note that while emu oil was previously used for skincare because of its ability to help repair and hydrate the skin, Japanese skincare companies have recently begun switching to ostrich oil because they realized that the latter has better benefits on the skin. There is also the possibility that emu oil may cause an allergic reaction in certain people. Ostrich oil, which is made up of more than 70 percent of palmitic acid and oleic acid, has a higher skin permeability compared to emu oil. This high skin permeability ensures that it can offer essential moisture that can help repair and hydrate the skin.?

It has also been noted that ostrich oil has a melting point of 26.5 degrees Centigrade with the result that when it is placed on human skin, it acquires a liquid texture, allowing it to be absorbed easily and quickly by the skin. Also, it has noted that ostrich oil is a non-irritant and non-toxic, which is why it is utilized in many pharmaceutical formulations because of its moderately facile and efficient skin penetration capabilities. It is also not surprising that ostrich oil is also used in the Japanese cosmetic industry.

While ostrich oil and emu oil are similar, the former contains a higher level of omega 3, 6, and 9 oils compared to the latter. It is because of these omega oils that the ostrich has the most powerful immune system among all land animals. Furthermore, ostrich oil has been observed to have a smaller molecular makeup when compared to emu oil, which makes it better in penetrating the skin. Pure ostrich oil has been noted to be hypoallergenic and comedogenic. It is able to reduce redness, dryness, and itching, and it is able to promote hair growth and soothe sunburn. It has been observed to be useful for tattoo care, aching joints, and stretch marks. Meanwhile, ChebeUSA offers cosmetic products based on the Traditional Chadian Chébé Powder for managing long kinky hair. According to Charity Sayers, the Chebe Powder is capable of unlocking the full growth potential of coarse and kinky hair. It contains natural ingredients to nourish and moisturize hair, thus preventing hair breakage and hair loss. This allows the hair to grow into long, strong and dark locks. It should be noted that chemical treatments can cause the hair to become brittle and can irritate the scalp. Not so with Chebe Powder, which is made of all-natural ingredients such as Prunus Mahaleb, Lavender Croton, Gum Arabic, Clove, Reisin, vegetable oil and perfume. These are herbs and spices that have been found to have potent anti-fungal and anti-inflammatory characteristics, getting rid of bacteria while locking in moisture.

ChebeUSA also offers other hair treatment products including the Chebe Oil, Chebe Butter, Chebe Hair Paste, Tallow Hair Pomade, Chebe Ostrich Oil, Chebe Jamaican Black Castor Oil, Chebe Olive Oil, Karkar & Chebe Hair Growth Oil, Chebe Coconut Oil, Fermented Rice Water Deep Conditioner, Karkar & Chebe Hair Paste, Chebe Curl Defining Custard Cream, Chebe Aloe Vera Gel, Chebe Hair Grease, Chebe Quinoa Protein & MSM Hair Retwist Spritzer, Chebe Edge Control Balm, Chebe Shea Nilotica Butter Cream, Fermented Rice Water Spray, Chebe Castor Oil, Chebe Fermented Rice Water, Karkar Hair Growth Oil, Chebe Eyelash Serum, Chebe Fenugreek Oil, Chebe Sieved Oil, Chebe Castor Jelly, Chebe Onion Oil, and more.
