Air Pro Master, a company that specializes in air conditioning repair in Las Vegas, is now making it easier than ever for those that come to them as referrals from home warranty services to get their AC repairs done. Those at the company said this was something they felt compelled to do because of the large number of people that are now taking advantage of the services that home warranty companies provide.

A company spokesperson had this to say about satisfying their air conditioner repair customers that are home warranty service referrals, "In this day and age in the air conditioning repair business you have to be flexible when getting residential customers AC problems resolved. That's because our customers come to us in so many different ways. One of those ways that customers are finding us more is through referrals from home warranty service companies. Getting these customers air conditioning problems taken care of requires a little different approach because you must deal with both the customer and their home warranty service representative. Over the years we have learned to streamline this process so our home warranty referral customers get the same prompt and reliable AC repairs that our regular residential customers are accustomed to receiving. This is why so many customers with home warranty AC repair claims now specifically request that our company handles that work."

One of the things that Air Pro Master does to help smooth out the home warranty AC repair referral process is they have set up a direct phone line to get this type of work done. The company spokesperson says if someone wants to expedite a home warranty air conditioning repair claim they simply have to call (702) 598-4174. This will put them in touch with a company representative that is a specialist at handling these types of AC repair claims.

Reviews suggest that the way the company now handles their home warranty AC repair requests is working. Here is what home warranty referral customer Thomas M. had to say about Air Pro Master's service, "The company was assigned to us through American Home Shield when our A/C went out. They came out the same day (which was great because it was 112 degrees) and called ahead to state they were only minutes away. They arrived on time. The tech, Alex, was professional and courteous and we felt very comfortable with him working on our equipment. The best part, he diagnosed the issue quickly and took care of it. He did not try to sell anything and did not tell us any horror stories about the condition of our system, which is something many companies do. If we have any further issues, we will request that this company get the job through AHS. We were that pleased.?

One thing the company spokesperson emphasized is that they work hard to satisfy every air conditioning repair customer that comes their way no matter how that customer finds them. The company not only works on residential AC repair Las Vegas, but they also have been helping commercial customers get their air conditioning repair needs taken care of for over 14 years now. They are a family-owned business that has a reputation for being honest and efficient when it comes to doing air conditioning repair work or any of the other HVAC or plumbing services that the company does on a regular basis.

They are also a well-rounded company when it comes to doing air conditioning repair services. Among the many different AC repairs that they do are fan motor changeouts, capacitor replacements, and freon leak detection and fixes. The company spokesperson said their HVAC techs have the ability to take on any size air conditioning repair project. Air Pro Master also offers air conditioning tune-ups, full AC system installations, and AC maintenance and cleaning services. Their customers can even call them 24/7 at (702) 935-5622 to get an emergency air conditioning repair service.
