Los Gatos, California based The Painting Pros is proud to announce that they are the very first painting contractor in the area to be recognized as ?Certified Green? by Green America. The company, which has more than 40 years of experience in the commercial painting industry, also holds the distinction of being a Lead Safe Regular Firm as well as a Diamond Certified awardee.

The Diamond Certified Award is given to local companies who consistently deliver the best and highest quality results and services. In order to receive the award, The Painting Pros passed a rigorous vetting process from the certifying agency, which randomly sampled around 400 of their past customers from whom they received a score of over 90% in quality and expertise.

The Painting Pros is a fully-insured and licensed painting contractor that services the greater Silicon Valley area. They are capable of handling all types of painting jobs for residential houses and commercial establishments alike. Additionally, the company prides themselves on having a team of painting professionals who are specially trained in the trade. They only use high-quality paints, primers, caulking, and spackle made by leading paint manufacturers.

?In addition to providing professional, high-quality painting work for our customers, we also ensure that the job will be finished on time and within the specified budget. With proven experience, quality results, and a solid reputation, you can?t go wrong by hiring The Painting Pros for your home or business,? says Cleve Dayton, founder and owner of The Painting Pros. Besides painting projects, Dayton states that they handle deck refinishing, light carpentry (trim installation and general repairs), and minor sheetrock repairs and texturing. The company also gives free advice and professional color consultation to customers to help them choose the correct paint colors for their homes or businesses. Interested parties may contact The Painting Pros to learn more about their wide range of services.

?We prioritize quality workmanship; that?s why we only employ professional and full-time painters. We also enforce strict quality control measures and ensure that all our materials are applied in accordance with the industry standards and manufacturer?s specifications,? Dayton says. He also asserts that The Painting Pros is committed to practicing safe and environmentally friendly standards. In fact, they use paints that are low in volatile organic compounds (VOCs), which are carbon-containing substances that release harmful vapors and gases. They are also committed to recycling papers and plastics and are on their way to becoming a completely paperless company.

The Painting Pros is a trusted painting contractor in the greater San Francisco area, based on hundreds of positive pieces of feedback regarding their quality workmanship and excellent customer service.

Dianne B., on diamondcertified.org, says, ?I thought they had excellent service. It was very personal, the price was right, and I felt like I really got an excellent job. Everyone from the owner, Cleve, to each person who showed up to work on our job site was just excellent. They cleaned up everyday and our house was put back to normal at the end. They've done two jobs for us before; they did the interior and exterior of our house. Their work surpassed my expectations. I have pretty high expectations. The quality at the appropriate price, and the quality of the service and the paint was excellent. I think they did a great job.?

Meanwhile, in a 5-Star Google review, Julie Saffren says, ?We have now worked with Cleve and his team on both exterior and interior painting of our home. We are so pleased with the results. Having painters in the house requires a level of professionalism and trust, and they exceeded expectations. Work was completed exactly on schedule and looks fantastic. Richard was especially pleasant to work with, and great at spotting and solving problems. Roshawn is a talented color specialist. She was great about keeping in touch by email and making sure the paint was exactly what we wanted and on site when needed. They also took great care of the newly refinished floors so the 'big reveal' at the end was terrific. Thank you, The Painting Pros.?
