Charlottesville, VA - January 23, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Piedmont Paint & Finish is advising the residents of Charlottesville, Virginia and the surrounding Greater Piedmont area to take advantage of its low-season home improvement services. Many contractors, such as themselves, are willing to do these low season tasks so that their crews can stay busy all year round. The company stated that there are many advantages to getting interior home services done in the winter season. More on the services that Piedmont Paint & Finish offers can be viewed at <https://piedmontpaint.com/residential>.

Piedmont Paint & Finish owner, Charles Davis, had this to say about the subject, "For many years now we have been offering a variety of low season interior painting services. It helps our crews stay busy all year round. These low season services also enable our customers to take advantage of the competitive prices that they most likely would not be able to get during the busy spring and summer painting season. This makes getting winter home improvement service contracts a win-win situation for both us and our customers."

Davis says that among the main considerations for getting winter interior home improvement work done is scheduling. He says that it's the time of year when customers are usually home more often. That makes the jobs much easier for them to fit into their schedule. The owner stated that businesses like theirs are also more flexible with their scheduling at this time of year because their workload is lower. He went on to add that there are not many times of the year when his customers can pick and choose the exact dates that they want to get their projects done, but the winter months are definitely the exception.

One of the most popular winter home improvement services that Piedmont Paint & Finish offers is its interior painting services. The owner says he and his crews love the way their winter interior paint projects turn out because the paint adheres better and dries faster because there is less humidity in the air. He was also quick to add that in the past people were very reluctant to get winter interior painting done because of the lingering odor of the fresh paint. Davis said that is no longer a problem with the introduction of low VOC paints. They have significantly less fumes because they use a water base to carry the paint instead of petroleum additives. The company said it only takes a small amount of ventilation to keep people from even noticing low VOC paint fumes.

Davis went on to say that they not only do quality interior low-season painting work, but they also strive to make every customer happy with the work that they do for them. The fact that Piedmont Paint & Finish is a consistently highly rated company backs that statement up. Here is a YouTube video the company made about a recent customer's review of their services: https://www.youtube.com/playlist?list=PL\_NkCXuleQqdMOWgK1L6dYLIg9Q96RuW6.

There are also some 42 reviews that have been written about the company on their Google Maps business listing page. When these reviews are totaled up the company averages a well-above normal 4.9 out of a possible 5-stars. That is something that very few companies can boast about.

Here is an example of a review taken from the company's Google Maps business listing page. In this 5 out of 5-star rating on the company, Kelly Weinersmith had this to say: "We had a really great experience with Piedmont. Their customer service is excellent (they're quick to respond, clear about when they're coming out, etc), and the people there are wonderful. The crew that painted our house were on time, very friendly, hardworking, and thorough. I don't know a ton about house painting - but it seemed to us that we were charged a totally reasonable amount (we had expected to pay more!), and we're thrilled with how the house looks. We've been doing a lot of home repairs lately, and we wish all the crews who came through our house were as pleasant to work with and as careful about their work as Piedmont. We'll definitely hire them again the next time we have a painting job."
