H&W Quality Products has officially launched its latest product, which is the hooded neck pillow. The company, creator and distributor of goods that promote wellness, is currently selling the product on Amazon.com exclusively.

The hooded neck pillow is H&W's latest product, following the company's successful launch of its coccyx seat cushion. H&W Quality Products' owner and founder Greg Dunsworth has dedicated his life to creating products that provide relief and comfort. "Our company was founded on the premise of bringing health and wellness solutions to the consumer," Greg explained in an interview found in <http://hwqualityproducts.com/>. "Our products are primarily focused on alleviating discomfort of everyday tasks such as sitting, standing, or lying down. Our customers appreciate how our products provide big solutions that enable comfort at the end of the day." Dunsworth, who is an Iowa native, considers sports and nutrition as the backbone of his upbringing. This particular passion continues to grow through his company's products that encourage fitness and overall wellness.

The company's hooded neck travel pillow combines comfort and support for traveling individuals. The product, available at <http://www.amazon.com/dp/B011JHZKCK>, comes with more material in the hood that can easily be pulled down to cover the eyes. Its plush velour cover provides exceptional comfort, while the memory foam provides support for the head and neck. It also offers warmth while blocking out light and reducing surrounding noise. Using the hooded neck pillow will allow proper head and neck alignment by molding the body's natural contours for a custom fit, as reported in https://www.facebook.com/HWQualityProducts?ref=aymt_homepage_panel, the company's Facebook page.

H&W is excited to launch its second product at Amazon.com. The demand for wellness products is continuing to rise, and an online marketplace is the perfect platform for the company to sell its product. In addition, the travel season is still ongoing, increasing the demand for the product. Since the company's hooded neck pillow has a feature that sets it apart from its competitors, H&W is expecting its hooded neck pillow to follow the success of the coccyx seat cushion, the company's maiden product.
