Macon Personal Injury Law Firm, Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C. ? Macon, wants people to know that they are now handling more different types of personal injury claims than ever before. They can do that because the attorneys working at the firm combine for over 350 years of personal injury litigation experience. This experience helps them always be prepared to take on defendants, businesses, and big insurance companies in a court of law. That way, their clients stand a better chance of getting the compensation they are legally entitled to after they have suffered a personal injury due to another person or parties negligence.

Firm Spokesperson, Tim Derrickson, had this to say about why they handle so many different types of personal injury claims, ?People get injured through no fault of their own every single day in Macon. These injuries often cause lost time from work, mounting medical bills, extreme discomfort and pain, and sometimes even death. When these injuries happen, victims have a right to be made as whole as possible again. The problem being, mounting medical bills and pressure from insurance companies to settle often leave accident victims far less compensated than they should have been. That?s where we come in. Just about any type of personal injury claim imaginable, we can help victims with. Our firm is here to make sure that people around Macon that have been injured in an accident through no fault of their own have someone to turn to who will help them with their legal right to seek compensation.?

Like most personal injury law firms, one of the main types of personal injury cases that Macon Personal Injury Attorney handles are those involving accidents with moving vehicles. Derrickson says they can handle such common accident cases as truck accidents and auto accidents, but they also deal with more unusual vehicle accident cases too. He says that includes motorcycle accidents and ATV accidents. The firm?s spokesperson says they have even successfully handled several personal injury claims involving bicycle accidents.

He also pointed out that their legal practice deals with a large variety of accident cases that do not involve moving vehicles. The more common ones are slip-and-fall accidents and workplace mishaps. He says lesser well-known types of accidents that the firm handles include construction site accidents, nursing home accidents, and dog attacks.

Other personal injury litigation areas that Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C. ? Macon covers are wrongful death, boating and other maritime accidents, RV accidents, and injuries caused by defective products. Derrickson says that they are willing to take on any type of personal injury case as long as they feel the client has a legitimate right to compensation.

The firm?s spokesperson also went on to add that personal injury cases can be very tricky to litigate. He says that?s why it?s best for accident victims to retain the legal services of a firm like theirs that specializes in personal injury litigation. Derrickson says that because of the vast amount of personal injury case experience that their team of lawyers has, they are not surprised by anything that comes their way when discussing settlements or during court proceedings.

This Macon personal injury lawyer offers free consultations to personal injury victims and will even go to visit them in the hospital if that?s what it takes to get the claim process started. Derrickson says over the years they have also assembled a hand-picked team of seasoned accident investigators they can call on anytime if they feel they must go that far to get a favorable settlement for a client. He also said there are no advance payments or any other up-front costs when they agree to take on a personal injury case. Their firm does not get compensated for their services unless they successfully litigate a personal injury claim in their client's favor. Derrickson also wanted to remind people in Macon that their firm can be contacted 24-hours a day, 7-days a week if someone has suffered a personal injury and feels they need legal assistance right away.
