Lusso Gear, in its desire to take some of the hassle out of automobile trips, has announced the release of its new car trash can vehicle accessory which can be seen at <https://www.lussogear.com/products/car-trash-can> on its website.

The Lusso trash bag includes a leakproof liner, which means that on long car drives, cups or bottles with liquids in them don't have to stay in the console or on the floor as this trash bag can hold them. The liner is also removable and washable. It is sized generously enough that it can hold 2.5 gallons of refuse. There are also storage pockets on the front and it's easy to use with a flip-top lid.

One customer thought it was a great idea and went on to say, "Someone really put some thought into this bag. It works great in my extra cab truck and would do the same in just about any vehicle. Strapping it on the back of a seat and the way it comes off so easily is a plus. It has enough room so that it doesn't have to be emptied every five minutes. The addition of a wet bag is a very nice touch as is the lid that covers the top."

The car trash can is available for purchase not only on Lusso's website but also from the company's Amazon store where it has proven popular and has received many complimentary reviews. Exclusively on the LussoGear.com website, customers can use coupon code PR0120CTC for 15% off their order, while supplies last.

A satisfied Amazon customer said, "I love this trash receptacle! It sits between my two front seats in the back-seat area. I have a 2017 CR-V that has nowhere to sensibly place a trash bag, so I had to use my front seat as a trash bag holder. I decided to go online and look for a solution to the problem. I found it on Amazon. No more trash in the front seat area. The nice thing is, I can easily place trash in its proper place even while driving. I simply reach back, flip the lid, deposit the trash. The plastic bags given out at the local supermarket fit in quite nicely, so no need to purchase special bags."

An interesting top 10 list of car accessories that Lusso particularly likes can be found on the company's blog by clicking here. There is a car organizer as well, which would let drivers keep their back seats as uncluttered as possible. And the Lusso trash bag rounds out the list as the final touch towards keeping a clean, enjoyable car.

Lusso Gear came into existence in 2016. Their stated mission is to serve parents around the world with high-quality products at affordable prices with friendly, knowledgeable service every time. They have a range of products to make any aspect of car travel with children more pleasant for parents and their children. The products range from car seat protectors to document holders for license and registration information. The company even makes a point to publish installation instructions on its website for the products they sell, from the car trash can to the seat protectors.

Perhaps most importantly, the company stands behind the quality and craftsmanship of their items for life. They explicitly state that if buyers are unhappy with their purchases for any reason, they may return them for an exchange or refund.

Alan, a company spokesman, said, "We pride ourselves on creating the highest quality car items as well as the best customer service in the business. If there is any difficulty or dissatisfaction with our products, we will make it right. Part of why we have been so successful is that we've spared no expense in the manufacturing process; we use only high-quality components and we've included helpful details in places that add to the utility of the products, like the pockets on our kick mats. We look forward to adding more items to our range in the future." More information is available on Lusso's website and its Amazon store.
