January 29, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Chelmsford, Essex based digital marketing agency Disseminate Digital Marketing is pleased to announce that they are providing SEO services to businesses in Essex and the surrounding areas. More information about the company and their services can be found at the following link: <https://disseminatedigital.co.uk>.

James Goldsmith, a spokesperson for Disseminate Digital Marketing, says, "All mouth no trousers, all talk no results?this is far too often the case with digital agencies. Not us, however. We shake up the status quo and do digital differently. We do what we say and, when we promise something, we deliver."

Goldsmith continues, "Today, we are proud to say that Disseminate Digital Marketing is one of the leading providers of SEO services in Essex. With a team of professional SEO specialists who have the skills and expertise to deliver excellent results for clients within any industry at our core, we offer a wide range of bespoke digital marketing services for clients in Essex and other parts of the UK. We'll get to understand your business deeply but, more importantly, we'll take the time to get to know your target market. With us, there are no wide brush strokes; it's all about laser-precise messages being delivered through the right mediums. Every move we make is based on a detailed understanding of them and you."

In addition to SEO, or Search Engine Optimization, the services offered by the company include social media marketing, web analytics, technical SEO, online reputation management, blogger and influencer outreach programs, content marketing, and much more. The company says that they help businesses expand their reach by providing data driven marketing solutions that have a high return on investment. Their services can enable businesses to enjoy the long-term benefits that come from adhering to search engine guidelines and meeting the needs and intentions of their target market. Disseminate Digital Marketing asserts that they have a hard-earned reputation that comes from delivering outstanding results to their clients. Goldsmith says, "We are proud to provide our professional services for a reasonable price, and there aren't any lengthy contracts or confusing reports. In addition, when you work with us, you will not be getting any nonsense, any snake oil or any baffling metrics that mean nothing to you. Just crystal-clear reports and results that you can hang your hat on."

In a blog post on their website, titled "Why Digital Marketing Is Important in 2020?" Disseminate Digital Marketing explains the importance of the service they provide. The blog post reads in part, "Digital marketing creates many exciting new media opportunities for organisations to interact with consumers. Most of these opportunities differ greatly from the one-way forms of communication offered by traditional marketing techniques like TV ads and print media advertisements. For example, a television or radio advertisement only allows an organisation to speak "at" a consumer. Digital marketing techniques, on the other hand, allow for a free-flowing exchange between organizations and consumers. This interaction is a mutual dialogue that provides additional benefits to both parties. It is highly engaging for consumers and increases their appreciation for your brand in a way that traditional marketing techniques cannot."

The post continues, "Consumers are increasingly turning away from traditional forms of media like television, print media and radio. They are spending more time on the Internet and using their electronic phones as their primary source of entertainment. According to research firm Zenith, consumers are now spending an average of 170.6 minutes online each day. They spend much of this time watching videos, playing computer games, reading news, participating in social media or studying. This statistic clearly highlights the importance of having a strong presence on digital platforms " which is only made possible by having a digital marketing strategy. If you fail to market your organisation online, consumers simply won't know you exist."
