Heirloom Culinary, a home and kitchen business in Rushford, NY, is proud to announce that they have launched a really nice birdhouse for bird lovers. This bird house has been designed by veteran airline pilot Jack Liguori, founder of the company, who worked together with Amish people. The Amish are known for their fantastic design and woodworking capabilities and this shines through in the bird house. Since having been released, it has already received numerous positive reviews.

Jack Liguori says, "I am a real bird lover. It is something inherent of pilots, probably because we spend so much of our time living in the sky, just like birds. When I retired, I missed the birds so I wanted to create something that would attract them to my garden, but that looked completely natural at the same time. The resulting bird house is truly unique, and I can't thank my team of Amish designers enough for the work that they have done as well."

Each birdhouse is made from natural looking pine. As a result, each piece is completely unique. Furthermore, as it is made from natural materials, it will attract a larger number of birds, who feel safe and comfortable in the house. This is something that has been noticed and appreciated by customers as well. One customer says, "I like the fresh smell of pine wood, birds came to the house the first day."

Each piece is made in the USA by the Amish. The best bird house comes with a small hole at the front, which is designed to attract smaller birds to the house, providing them not just with comfort but also with safety. The bird house also provides air ventilation to the birds inside and it is very easy to mount anywhere in a garden. Finally, the front end can be opened from top to bottom, so that it can easily be cleaned. However, bird lovers are encouraged to not do this too often, in case a bird has started nesting in it. Should a nest be disturbed, it will often be abandoned by the mother.
