Party Go Round is a family-owned business run by co-owners Lynette and Ian Mathieu. The husband and wife team conceived the idea during a casual conversation between them in 2016. Party Go Round service area now covers Greater Cincinnati, Northern Kentucky, and Southeast Indiana.

Party Go Round is fully insured by the Cossio Insurance Agency, and is annually inspected by the Ohio State Agricultural Department (Ride & Safety Division). The company is also certified with SIOTO (Safe Inflatable Operators Training Organization).

?We take the safety of families very seriously. Our customer reviews on Google and Facebook reflect our commitment to providing a safe and fun experience with our equipment,? says co-owner Ian Mathieu.

One of the frequently asked questions the party rental company gets is what should be expected by customers on the day of their event and how does the process work. According to the company website, the setup team generally arrives 1 to 3 hours before the rental time begins. If there are many rentals scheduled for that day, the setup team may need to arrive as early as 4 hours in advance. If this is the case, they will call the Friday before to confirm that someone will be at the party location. At the time of setup, the rental agreement will be reviewed, they will go over any questions regarding safety, proper use, and any other topic the customer wishes to discuss. If payment by the customer had not already been made prior to the setup, it will be due after the setup of the equipment.

When considering inflatable jump rental equipment, the party rental company suggests customers pay attention to the requirements listed on the company website with each jump. They also recommend that customers make sure to have at least 4 feet of access to the area where the equipment will be set up. Some of the big jumps can weigh up to 650 pounds. In these instances, the setup crew would need a clear path with ample room.

Among the inventory, Party Go Round has several themes to choose from including Justice League, Mickey Mouse, Princess and plenty of gender-neutral items as well. While there is a great selection of standard bouncy castles, the company advised customers to be sure and look at their popular combos. One of which, the Tropical Wave Combo, is one of their most requested rentals. It can be used dry or simply hook a hose up to use it as a water slide.
