Over the years, swimming pool designs have changed drastically, according to SC?s leading home living magazine. ?At one time, they were considered a luxury of only the rich and famous and now have evolved to homeowners,? says Lowcountry Home Magazine.

Nowadays, even homeowners put up swimming pools on their properties to give a resort-style feel to their space. ?A place where they can relax, entertain and call the crown jewel of their home,? they added.

The largest magazine publisher in SC shared the top three popular pool design trends in SC today. These are pool automation and controls, fire & water combinations, and lounging ledges inside pools. Lowcountry Home Magazine shared some factors why every homeowner should consider adding these elements to their pool.

First is the fire and water combination, which showcases a dramatic effect on every home. Modern poolscapes now include fireplaces, fire bowls, and fire pits. ?Fire features offer ambiance and warmth, allowing pool owners to enjoy spending their time poolside,? according to the home improvement magazine.

Another popular trend in pool design is the addition of lounging ledge. According to the Best Home Ideas Magazine in Bluffton, SC, lounging areas in pools have become so popular that homeowners are also adding more amenities. They now include facilities such as bubbler fountains with colored lights, umbrella sleeves and sleek, modern lounging chairs specifically designed for use in the water, among others.

With the advent of technology, more pools are also being automated. With the use of a pool system automation, anyone can now manipulate their pool features even when not at home. Using smart devices, these are all possible, according to Lowcountry Home Magazine. Users only need a reliable wifi connection, they added.
