

Those at Real Cannabis Entrepreneur Looking Forward to Next Year's Cannabis Events NJ After the Smashing Success of this Year's Conference

January 28, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Real Cannabis Entrepreneur has just announced that its 2019 conference was a huge success. Those who founded the event could not possibly be more thrilled with the turnout. The positive results of this year's conference have created even more excitement as they look forward to hosting the event again in 2020.

The Real Cannabis Entrepreneur Conference was the brainchild of Gary & Marie George. It came about through their own frustrations as they tried to learn more about being successful at making a living growing cannabis. Here is what Gary George had to say on the subject, "We had invested, traveled and attended so many seminars and conferences across the country in hopes of attaining actionable information on the cannabis industry that we could implement immediately. Our efforts were constantly met with frustration and a sense that we wasted our money. The conferences we attended were riddled with information on the state of the industry and regulatory and legislative conversations. Although these are important conversations, they contained nothing like the dirty blueprint for success in the cannabis business that opportunity seekers like us were looking for. So we decided to create an event ourselves that was focused more on the growing and marketing side of the business. Hence the 2019 Real Cannabis Entrepreneur Conference was born."

Gary said that this year's conference took place November 15th-16th in Newark, New Jersey. It was held at the Ramada Plaza by Wyndham. He said some of the topics that were covered at this year's conference included how to start a dispensary, CBD product lines, or a smokeshop/headshop. There was also startup information on those looking to get into the edibles and infusion end of the cannabis business.

The co-founder also mentioned that the event featured many speakers who are leaders in the cannabis industry. The headline speakers included Dr. Burnetta "Bee" Thomas, the so-called "Queen of Cannabis"; seasoned cannabis consultant Matt Sibert who himself has launched 5 dispensaries; and Nick Kraus founder and CEO of Herban Creative, a fast-growing cannabis-focused digital marketing company. He said their collection of speakers featured 36 years of cumulative experience in this young industry.

Gary also said that part of the reason for holding the Real Cannabis Entrepreneur Conference was to debunk the myth that the only way to break into the cannabis business was to operate a dispensary. They did that by exposing people to the 1000's of ancillary cannabis businesses that are now being created. The conference presented real-life examples, business models, solutions, and strategies that people can use to immediately start generating capital in the rapidly growing cannabis business.

Those who are interested in attending next year's Cannabis Events New Jersey can monitor the Real Cannabis Entrepreneur's website to stay up to date on what activities and forums will be conducted during next year's conference. The dates the 2020 conference is being held are Sept 25th-26th and it will once again take place in Newark, NJ. Gary promises the 2020 event will feature even more speakers than this year's event and be filled with even more information on how to be a part of this booming new business.

In addition to the conference, the husband and wife team also stock the event website with lots of good information that's related to growing cannabis, marketing the product, and other related businesses. This includes such informational articles as "Cannabis Branding Blueprint for Startups & Product Owners" and cannabis innovation articles such as "Hemp Batteries Are More Powerful Than Lithium and Graphene".

Gary himself also leads what he terms a "monthly mastermind call". It's a group call that includes some dozens of leading professionals from a wide spectrum of the cannabis industry. He says it gives cannabis opportunity seekers and investors a chance to listen to and pick the brains of some of the foremost cannabis growing, regulatory and marketing minds in the business.
