

100 More PhD Holders in English Literature Joined Clazwork

August 22, 2014

August 22, 2014 -

Good news for students everywhere!

One hundred more writers have recently joined Clazwork, in order to manage the ever increasing number of orders in literature topics. All the writers have PhD degrees, and years of experience in different essay writing services in the USA and the UK. With their involvement, Clazwork is expected to help students in all their assignment requirements, even with a very short deadline.

Clazwork has been receiving plenty of suggestions from students on the unavailability of writers in the department of Literature and Shakespeare studies. Ever since then, Clazwork has been trying to hire more writers who are well qualified and highly experienced. Experience and expertise are the most fundamental aspects for a writer to bring out remarkable pieces of writing. It is for this reason that Clazwork has decided to hire writers with outstanding academic profiles. All the one hundred writers have completed doctorates from highly reputable universities. Also, their experience in the area of custom writing makes them come up with what the students are exactly in need of.

Writers for literature papers need to be well read in a number of areas in the field, including ancient literature and literary criticism. This can be expected only in those who have lots of experience in their credit. The new writers have been chosen based on their academic profile, as well as a written test. Clazwork has certain requirements for the writers to fulfill. First and foremost, they must pay the utmost importance to academic integrity. Clazwork assures 100% originality for each and every paper written by its hands. It has a strict policy on plagiarism, and this enables students to get maximum grades in evaluations. In addition to that, the expertise of the writers has already been proven. All these indicate that the academic future of students is safe with Clazwork. The new addition of a hundred writers is a part of Clazwork's journey to ultimate excellence.

New writers at Clazwork are a great boon to the student community for getting their literature assignments written perfectly. With the writer profile, the students can be certain that they cannot commit any mistakes in writing papers. In order to make the writing processes more efficient, a senior writer has been chosen to be the supervisor, to monitor the department of literature. Different writers work on different areas such as dissertation, research papers, and book review. This helps to further improve the quality of writing. The newly appointed writers have been divided into different areas based on their taste of writing. As per the request of many customers, more specialized writers for dissertation topics have been hired. Also, there will be an adequate number of writers for other areas as well. In this manner, new hands hired by Clazwork help the students all across the world to produce their custom written literature paper successfully.

###