Chem-Dry of Park City, Utah is pleased to announce that they are now able to provide Upholstery Cleaning services to residents and businesses in Heber City, Park City and the surrounding communities. The company already provides carpet and rug cleaning services that include Pet Urine Removal Treatment (PURT) for many customers. They also carry out Tile & Grout Cleaning, Granite Countertop Restoration and Water Damage Restoration.

Daryl Olsen, representing Chem-Dry of Park City, says, "Most families know that they need to get their carpets cleaned twice a year. We are delighted that we can now help our customers ensure that their upholstery is properly cleansed and treated in order to extend their lifespan and ensure that they look their best. Our team knows precisely how to treat any fabric in the best and most effective way possible, and we can get into all the nooks and crannies with specialized tools."

Through their online scheduling feature, those who require Heber City upholstery cleaning can get a free quote online for all the services they believe they need. The contact form also hosted by the website allows customers to pose any inquiries they have or make any special requests. Chem-Dry of Park City will do their best to accommodate every customer's preferred appointment times and special requirements.

The company's staff consist of a team of professionally trained technicians who are devoted to ensuring that Chem-Dry's proprietary cleaning processes are followed correctly. Whether it is just the upholstery or a spring clean of the entire household, their mission is to ensure every customer gets the benefits of well cleaned house. Daily wear and tear of furniture grinds in dirt and dust as well as dust mites, for instance. Similarly, pollens and other types of stains can make upholstered furniture appear dingy, or retain the smell of family pets.

One of the most important benefits for furniture cleaning is for health reasons, removing many allergens as well as ensuring that dust mites cannot take up residence and then multiply in the upholstery. Dust mites, which can survive on dead human skin cells alone, will multiply in upholstery when given the chance. Their defecations have specific allergens that can cause many people to become sick.

Their customers provide evidence of the care and attention the company pays to the things which matter most. For example, Jenny Iverson says in her Google review, "I was happy with my Chem-dry experience. They came in and cleaned several of my sofas and chairs as well as a large rug. One of the chairs had been quite filthy, and it looked like a different chair when they were through with it! I have a lighter colored loveseat that they told me might not come completely clean because of the fabric, and it wasn't perfect but still looked better. My rug is a multi-color patterned rug and has a significant portion of off-white in the pattern. It was quite dirty, and I think their process pulled up a lot of dirt. The off-white parts actually didn't look great when they were finishing, but the workers told me it might just need to dry. They assured me that if it didn't look better by the next day to call and they would fix it."

The review, to this point, reflects a situation that many homeowners find themselves in when they hire a cleaning service. Many companies make promises, but only those who really value their customers follow through. Iverson continues, "Sure enough, it still looked dirty the next day. I called, and they came back that afternoon and worked for several hours until it was clean to my satisfaction. The two men were very cheerful about this and not bothered by the extra work, and they continued to work until I was satisfied. The rug looks as good as new." Notably, Iverson awarded Chem-Dry of Park City a full 5-Star rating.

Olsen states, "Some families prefer to tackle their problems one room at a time. Others prefer us to come in and take care of everything so they get a perfectly clean and healthy home. As Jenny has mentioned, if there is anything that is not quite right after drying, we will come back and make it right. If you pride yourself on owning a safe and healthy home, we are the perfect partner to protect your investment in household furnishings."
