Duluth, GA based Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C. is issuing a public advisory urging the members of their community to promptly seek the aid of a personal injury attorney in the event they are involved in an accident. In many cases, the victim may themselves not be solely or even partially at fault, a fact that in turn may legally entitle them to compensation.

Comprised of a team of personal injury lawyers in Duluth GA, the firm is adamant that injured parties should seek legal assistance as soon as possible, especially given the fact that insurance providers will most likely attempt to settle for a far smaller sum than they are due. In severe circumstances, such as the victim being hospitalized, family members or other representatives may contact the attorneys at Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C. on their behalf. The timing, they assert, is extremely important in any case. Once an accident victim's medical needs are seen to and they are no longer at risk of further harm, they should contact an attorney immediately in order to give their case the highest chances of success.

"Evidence has a tendency to get more difficult to find as time goes on," says Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C. "Taking the example of a car accident, we would ideally have the opportunity to collect photographs of the vehicles in question, investigate the scene of the incident and so on to help build your case. We'd also like to speak with witnesses as soon as possible due to the fact that memories can get less accurate with time. The more we can find out and the more accurate our data, the better we will be able to help you." In practice, this extends beyond winning compensation. The amount of compensation a victim receives is often dependent on how wronged they are, or how liable the other party is for their injuries and distress. Being able to back up the details of a victim's issues with hard evidence plays a large role in the successful conclusion of a case.

Choosing a Duluth personal injury lawyer need not be a difficult task either, says the firm. While it may be tempting to prioritize a budget when looking for legal help, they contend that this will likely result in the victim receiving a smaller settlement than their case would otherwise merit. An attorney whose services are available for more ?budget-friendly? rates will most probably lack the resources to adequately represent their client. Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C., however, has a wealth of resources as well as experience in the field of personal injury law, all of which is placed at their client?s disposal.

Notably, given that the firm prioritizes helping accident victims, they assure their community that new clients are entitled to a free consultation. As the initial cost of a consultation can keep a victim from conclusively learning whether their case has enough merit to be pursued, this free consultation will allow them to receive the firm?s expert advice in the matter. They may then make an informed decision.

Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C. continues, ?Personal injury accidents take place in Duluth GA every day.
