Pensacola, Fla. - Over the course of the previous year, many have chosen to spend their hard-earned vacation time at RV Parks, opposed to expensive resorts or destinations. At Avalon RV Park, the local business owners have noticed a significant increase in both their visitors and interest and expect that trend to continue into 2020. Whether it is because of the scenic views or the notable accessibility, the leading Pensacola RV park is anticipating continuing their growth into the new year.

A recent survey directed toward the "millennial" age group conducted by Parade magazine has explained the uptick in RV travel by stating that "Millennial travelers are often looking for more than just a trip to a new destination; they're looking for an exciting experience, a different way to see the world, and a chance to escape the everyday hustle and bustle. Whether that's a planned-out itinerary or a spontaneous weekend trip, there are few better ways to get away than to simply get outside. One surprising way millennials have embraced the great outdoors is retro in nature: RVing."

The Pensacola campgrounds Avalon Landing RV Park calls home have proven quite popular due to their beach accessibility and their short vicinity to the historic Pensacola downtown area. Pensacola is home to one of the most beautiful beaches in the entire United States with beautiful white sands and a calm local atmosphere. Pensacola is also the site of one of the first European settlements in the New World. Led by Conquistador Don Tristán de Luna y Arellano, the expedition landed on our pristine shores in 1559, making it a well-known, sought after tourist destination.

Traveling by RV has allowed for vacationers to meet new people and get exposed to different ideas and lifestyles, something that is often missing in today's most common digital interactions. As the years have gone by, more and more people turned to RV travel as a way to experience their surroundings in a way other than the typical tourism options. Vacationing at an RV Park has proven to be a safe, easily accessible, and cost-efficient option when traveling the country.
