February 05, 2020 -
Furnace Repair Calgary, based in Calgary, Alberta, Canada, has announced that they have established a new blog on their website. The company is a furnace repair contractor in Calgary that is focused on furnaces and HVAC systems, allowing them to accurately diagnose the main reason for a furnace issue and provide fast repair to homeowners in Calgary. The company has been providing furnace services to residential property owners in Calgary and the neighbouring areas since 2011. And as part of their commitment to help homeowners with the furnace requirements, they have created a blog where they post articles that offer helpful information on furnaces and HVAC systems.

For instance, one article in the blog site provides a guide to homeowners how they will know when to request professional help for tuning up their furnace. As a general rule, this must be done once a year. However, it may be a good idea to consult a furnace expert to determine if a yearly tune-up is needed or not. For example, if the home is always clean, there are no pets, the furnace is new, or if the furnace is not often used, a furnace tune up could be performed every two to three years. This article also discusses the tasks that will be done in a furnace tune up, the expected cost, and how to get more value from the money spent for the tune up.

Matthew Hannigan, CEO of Furnace Repair Calgary, says, ?We?re happy to announce that we have established a blog on our website. We hope that the articles on our blog will be of great help to homeowners in Calgary who are interested in ensuring that their furnaces are in proper working order to ensure that they have a comfortable home. Our top priority has always been to provide excellent customer service. We offer high-quality, reliable and exceptional services at the most reasonable prices. Any of our clients in Calgary can enjoy an exceptional experience unrivalled by the competition. We are ready to meet your expectations and go beyond. That?s why we have set the bar very high when it comes to our services. And yes, all our current and previous customers can testify that we have achieved this.?

Furnace Repair Calgary offers various kinds of services. These include furnace repair, furnace installation, furnace and duct cleaning, boiler repair, air conditioning, and HVAC maintenance plans. The company offers furnace and heating repair services with guaranteed prompt service within hours, rather than days. Matthew Hannigan points out that this is important because the winter months in Alberta can get extremely cold. Family members cannot wait around for days or weeks before a furnace technician is able to diagnose and repair the furnace so that it can once again provide the warmth that is needed inside the home.

Of course, Furnace Repair Calgary can also provide furnace installation services. They are capable of installing various furnace brands, including Carrier, Goodman, Mitsubishi, lG, Amana, Lennox, Sanyo, Maytag, Honeywell, Janitrol, KitchenAid, Trane, York, Coleman, Bryant, Rheem, Ruud, Heil, ClimateMaster, Tempstar, Bohn, Whirlpool, Rinnai, and GE.

They can also provide air conditioning equipment maintenance or repair. They want to point out that a dirty or inappropriately serviced air conditioner would be unable to operate efficiently, costing the homeowner a substantial amount in the energy bill. Furthermore, an AC unit that is left un-serviced for a long time can be a safety risk for the whole family. Through professional cleaning and maintenance, no matter how old the AC unit, its life and efficiency can be vastly improved.

Another important service provided by Furnace Repair Calgary is furnace and duct cleaning. This is essential because dirty furnaces and air ducts can result into indoor air pollution that can have a negative effect on the health of the home?s residents. They want to stress that thorough cleaning of the duct work by a professional cleaning service is essential to ensure the best results.
