February 03, 2020 -

With website development and marketing support from MarketBlazer?s Ray L. Perry, Can-Restore launched a new website, Can-Restore.com. ?We needed a site that could provide the basic information homeowners need when they?re faced with fire damage, smoke damage, water damage, storm damage, or mold problems in their homes. We also wanted to be able to offer a free report they could download anytime, any day,? said Ricky Wilson.

?Having a website is not enough these days,? said Perry. ?It?s important to make sure your website not only gives valuable and useful information to your prospective customers, but also that it is built in a way that the search engines will recognize you as an authority in your field. It?s also crucial not to just run full-on into whatever seems to be the marketing tactic of the month; the smart way to market is by starting with a strategy.?

The new Can-Restore.com website features: Multiple ways to connect with the water, fire, and storm restoration experts at Can-Restore at four convenient locations in Georgia; easy navigation to make it easy for website visitors to find the information they need quickly; case studies of how Can-Restore has helped its clients; a free report on fire, water, and smoke damage restoration for home and business; and regular blog postings easily accessed from the homepage.

?We are excited about our new website because it will help us reach Georgia homeowners, businesses, and the insurance companies that work with them, and provide them with the information they need should they experience damage to their homes or commercial properties. Suffering damage from fire, water, smoke, and storms can be extremely stressful. We want to be able to make the recovery process as simple and fast as possible. Part of that process involves having access to restoration services that can be trusted,? said Wilson.
