August 27, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

The Amazon marketplace has been buzzing since the launch of the heat resistant oven mitts by Las Vegas, Nevada based company, SMM Group, LLC. The gloves have been gaining in popularity since their initial launch earlier this year. The oven mitts are designed to keep hands safe and free from burns, even in temperatures up to 932 degrees Fahrenheit.

"They are specifically designed to protect your hands, and they're longer than most oven mitts so they will protect you further up your arms," says Mike, spokesperson for the SMM Group.

Produced by Grill Heat Aid, the oven mitts are constructed of the very same material that is used to create uniforms for fire fighters. They also contain a soft cotton lining, which makes them much more comfortable than regular oven mitts.

"I bought these for my husband, who is always grilling during the summer," says one Amazon customer. "But, I've since 'stolen' them from him and I use them in the kitchen whenever I'm baking. They're just so wonderful."

The gloves feature a lightweight design, which is one reason many customers appreciate them. The design makes it much easier for them to handle pots and pans, and they are rugged and durable enough to handle even the toughest of outdoor activities.

"We recommend even taking them camping with you. Stoking a campfire can be dangerous, but our oven mitts are designed to protect you whenever you're working with heat," says Mike.

And many customers are using them for much more than just grilling. Many of those who have purchased the oven mitts have reported having them on hand for fireplaces, campfires, and residential wood stoves. Their design, complete with silicone patches on the palms for stronger grip, make them the perfect gloves for virtually any fire related task.

SMM Group, LLC provides a range of home related items. Their oven mitts are looking to be one of the hottest items for the upcoming Christmas season, and can currently be purchased on the Amazon marketplace. Those looking for more information about the company or the gloves, can visit them at their official website or on Amazon.
