February 17, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

A law firm based in Toronto, Ontario, has announced that new information has been published on their website with regards to DUI charges in the Toronto area. The firm states that they regularly update their website with information for people that is designed to help educate them on the charge of driving under the influence in general, as well as defence strategies and crucial information regarding DUI.

An attorney with the firm states, "Being charged with driving under the influence is not something that should be taken lightly. We want to educate people about the consequences of being convicted of these charges and what they can do initially if they have been accused of a DUI."

The DUI lawyer Toronto states that the firm's website includes information for people about the various charges that one could face if arrested for driving under the influence and gives information on how the firm could potentially fight those charges in court. He states that there are a number of defences that can be built against these types of cases but stresses that time is of the essence in any case involving driving under the influence.

"There are many defences against DUI," says the attorney. "However, most of these depend on you contacting an attorney quickly after you have been arrested. If you wait too long, many of these defence strategies will no longer be available to help you and your risk of being convicted is much higher."

The Ontario based DUI lawyer says that they offer information on their website regarding why it is too important to contact an attorney quickly in order to build a strong defence. He says that there are certain steps that need to be taken before a case is prepared and contested in court, and that these steps could significantly help to increase the chances of winning a DUI case. The attorney says that the first step is to contact an experienced DUI attorney. He states that just any attorney is not going to provide the best possible outcome.

Toronto has a number of attorneys but only a select few can claim extensive knowledge and education in the areas of driving under the influence of drugs and alcohol. The Toronto attorney says that he and his firm have the experience needed to help their clients overturn those charges but reiterates that contacting them soon after being charged is essential to a good outcome.

The attorney goes on to say that their website includes a lot of information about driving under the influence in general and what people can do if they are charged with this crime. He states that the website is set up to be easy to navigate so that people can quickly find the information that they need and states that this is information that could help them quickly handle their DUI case and overcome those charges, provided they are hiring a qualified attorney and acted as quickly as possible after being arrested.

DUI charges can carry hefty penalties in Canada. These can include a criminal record that will be a blot for the accused for the rest of his or her life. In addition, jail time, a suspended or revoked driver's license and a number of fines can also be part of the conviction process. The attorney says that just as there are a number of potential consequences for a DUI, there are also a number of potential defences which could include challenging the legality of a DUI checkpoint, proving to the court that no alcohol or drugs were involved and proving that the accused was not actually operating the motor vehicle at the time of arrest, among many others.

The Toronto attorney says that people need to know how important it is to hire a qualified and experienced attorney for charges related to driving under the influence. He states that they add content to their website as a means of helping people to better understand the impact that these charges can have on their lives and to give them hope that there is help available. The website currently has a number of categories of information designed to help people to better understand DUIs. The attorney states that those who have been accused of driving under the influence should contact the firm for an evaluation of their case. Those interested can learn more on the firm's official website where direct contact information for the Toronto legal firm is also provided.
