JackpotCandles.com, an Amherst, New York candle company, has announced the newest scent to their jewelry candle lineup. The newest scent is mixed berry and is now available for purchase. More details about the mixed berry jewelry candle can be seen at http://www.jackpotcandles.com/can-195.

Nicole Szymanski, spokesperson for JackpotCandles.com, commented on the newest scent, "It's the perfect scent for summer and beyond. We've also made mixed berry available in our soy wax tarts."

Jackpot Candles manufactures hand poured candles, made from 100 percent natural soy. The candles are long burning and come in a variety of scents from fresh baked holiday cookies and pies to flowering gardens and mountain breezes, as well as the new mixed berry aroma.

The mixed berry candle comes in a bright shade of purple, and burns for up to 100 hours. It contains hints of seasonal berries including raspberries, strawberries, and blueberries, and is infused with essential oils.

The scented candles, however, are not the only thing that customers receive when they purchase them. After the candles have burned down, customers will find a foil wrapped jewelry item at the bottom of the jar, valued at anywhere between $15 and $5,000.

"We carefully work to ensure that each one of the 100% handmade in the USA wax products we make contains a jewelry item based on your selection. These jewelry pieces ensure that your candle experience lasts a lifetime," says Nicole Szymanski. "'Like' our Facebook page to know about our weekly giveaways first!" The company is currently hosting a weekly draw where they are giving away their candles to four or more winners every month, complete with a hidden jewelry prize in each one.

The jewelry candles work just like any traditional candle in the sense that they offer a pleasant aroma. Users simply burn the candle until the jewelry pouch is revealed. JackpotCandles.com features an instant appraisal on their official site for those who want to see just how much the jewelry they have received is worth.
