February 21, 2020 -
As the Best Health Insurance agency in Hilton Head, SC, Korthase Insurance recommends investing early for retirement.

Nowadays, an annuity is becoming a popular option for many seniors as a retirement asset. An annuity can be paid with a fixed sum of money to an insurance company, which becomes a senior?s asset. This asset, in the long run, will provide income for retirement, which can be used for healthcare and living expenses.

According to Korthase Insurance, there are three factors why people buy annuities. First, is for the periodic payment seniors can get during their retirement. What has been contributed by the senior are converted into periodic payments.

The second reason is the death benefits provided for beneficiaries for those with an annuity. Lastly, seniors prefer annuities because they enjoy tax-deferred savings with their investment. These savings can be used for their living expenses and healthcare.

The health insurance company also explained the various ways to acquire annuity. One is the fixed annuity. With this type, a fixed payment is made by the client. The principal investment and income are both guaranteed by the insurance company.

Another option is the variable annuity, wherein clients can choose how much financing they want to put in. The income will, meanwhile, depend on how those investments perform. Then, there is also immediate annuity, which is paid instantly. The investor pays a lump-sum, and guaranteed income starts almost immediately. It is usual for medical purposes.
