Rob Morris, COO of Fast Home Sales, states, ?Our mission is to help homeowners move forward quickly, without the hassle and delay of fixing up their home for sale. From start to finish, our process takes about two weeks. Homeowners love that they are working directly with us, not an agent. We will take a look at their home and make a fair offer, with no obligation incurred on their part. We do not care if it needs a major repair or whether it has not been updated for decades. Our service takes the worry and stress out of selling a home, which is one of life?s most stressful major events.?

More people, according to the company, are trying to avoid expensive real estate costs, broker fees and the hassle of having complete strangers come through their homes during Open House (and similar) events. Fast Home Sales has streamlined their process to three essential steps: the sellers submit their information, the company meets with the sellers at the home in question and the final step is for the sellers to choose a closing date. At each step of the way, the homeowner is in charge of the process.

Fast Home Sales is active on social media. They invite everyone to connect with their Facebook page, at https://www.facebook.com/FastHomeSalesBuysHouses/, where the company shares informative blog articles, news and other relevant posts. In January, for instance, they posted their 2020 guide to quickly selling a home. It is recommended that homeowners look up this post to get a wider perspective of their options.

The company makes it a point to share many informative articles and guides through their official website as well, which are available for free. Currently, they are featuring ?5 Ways To Stop or Avoid Foreclosure In Today?s Market.? This guide can be downloaded directly from their Contact page. Those who would like to check whether their area is currently covered by the company?s services can do so through the website?s Locations Page. Even if a given location is not on the list yet, it may be worth spending a minute or two to make an inquiry with the company?s representatives.

RFD TV recently featured the company in an article that explores their work in Columbia, South Carolina. In it, Morris is quoted as saying, ?If you are looking to sell your house in Columbia, you?ve no doubt thought about listing it and going through the whole process. As anyone who has done it before will no doubt tell you, it is a long and involved process that will take a lot of your time and even some of your money. However, why list your home when there are other, better ways for you to quickly sell your house??

The article highlights the fact that Fast Home Sales has helped people who have struggled to sell their homes. This is also attested to by Elizabeth Stuhr, whose testimonial can be read on their website. The testimonial says, ?Dan D?Ambrosio was a lifesaver. He bought our property that we had been unable to sell for almost 10 years. I really enjoyed working with him as he was very reliable and personable. I would highly recommend Dan!? Morris stresses that the company strives to be transparent and will respond to any concerns the seller has. This allows homeowners to quickly move forward into the next phase of their life, regardless of their present circumstances. There is no waiting period required for buyers to get their own funding approval, nor the dreaded offer/counter offer and comp negotiations that add to the stress and hassle. In addition, since there are no real estate agents, there are no additional commission fees, marketing costs and so on.

Those who would like to find out if Fast Home Sales can help them move forward are encouraged to contact the company through their official website. Sellers can also make inquiries through the company?s contact page or connect with them on Facebook, Twitter and Pinterest to stay abreast of their latest news and announcements.
