February 21, 2020 -
Lowcountry Home Magazine, the Best Modern Home Magazine in Bluffton, SC, highlights why spa-inspired bathrooms are now becoming popular. Most homeowners are transforming their bathroom to have their personal spa at home, the media company adds.

To achieve a spa-like experience at home, adding luxurious bathroom features is necessary, according to Janet Wall, Area Showroom Manager for Ferguson Bath, Kitchen & Lighting Gallery in the Carolinas. In her article published in Lowcountry Home Magazine, she gave a clear explanation about the trending spa-like bathroom nowadays.

?There are a myriad of ways to transform your bathroom into a spa-inspired sanctuary,? she quipped. One of which is adding freestanding tubs. Today?s modern tubs feature sleek lines, geometric shapes, and a wide variety of coordinating freestanding faucets and hand showers. The tub?s generous size provides the ultimate all-around comfort and relaxation, she adds.

Another option is the addition of digital showering systems at home. Remote-controlled showers allow users to save their favorite temperatures and showerhead combinations, as well as play music. Steam showers can also give a spa-like experience at home. Adding touchless faucet, which is popular in commercial settings, is now even possible.

One thing to consider for a complete spa experience at home is to upgrade lighting systems. Adding recessed fixtures or decorative chandeliers could add a relaxing effect in the house, particularly in the bathroom.
