H&W Quality Products, a health and wellness company, is proud to announce that they have launched their third product on Amazon. The hydration running belt, as can be seen on <http://www.amazon.com/dp/B010CHU64A>, is designed to keep people comfortable and healthy while they go about their outdoor pursuits. The company is very happy to have been able to launch it now, when people are still engaging in many outdoor pursuits while the weather still allows them.

H&W Quality Products' Greg Dunsworth says, "My company was founded on the premise of bringing health and wellness solutions to our consumers. Our third product, the running belt, has been designed specifically for runners, hikers and sightseers when traveling. Essentially, it is a must have for outdoor activities."

The company offers primarily products that help everyday tasks feel more comfortable. These include sitting, standing and lying down. They believe that being active is an integral element of overall wellness, which is why they also offer products that help to improve performance and comfort during athletic and leisure activities.

To date, the company has launched three products. The first is the coccyx orthopedic memory foam cushion, and the second is their hooded neck pillow. These have both been designed to offer physical comfort while sitting or traveling. The hydration belt is the first product that is geared specifically towards active people.

"August is a busy month for outdoor activities around home and sightseeing while on vacation," adds Greg Dunsworth. "This hydration running belt includes plenty of storage capacity to hold your necessities when exercising or traveling (phone, credit cards, cash, ID, etc.) and a front pouch to hold a water bottle or sports drink of your choice."

While the belt has only been recently released, it is already being positively reviewed on the selling platform. The company expects this to be a sign of things to come, as their previous products have also been incredibly popular and continue to sell well. The belt is the ideal companion during outdoor pursuit, as it can hold all essential items and in particular a bottle of water.
