?When a home or business is faced with the problem of a blocked drain, it can become quite a nasty problem very quickly,? stated company manager, Carl Rumsey. ?A blocked drain can cause the toilet or kitchen to become unusable and can also cause overflow of waste-water that can lead to property damage as well as be a concern to health and safety. In such situations, making sure that a drain unblocking service arrives quickly at site to resolve the problem is key.?

At RSJ Drains, the drain engineers can be at customer site in Greater London within 2 hours from the time of accepting customer call with a request to visit customer premises.

The vans at RSJ Drains are equipped with the latest equipment and each van comes with two fully trained and experienced drain engineers.

“Over 90% of drain problems are resolved within the first hour of a visit at customer site,” explains Carl Rumsey. “The fast turnaround happens because of the knowledge and experience a drain engineer brings to the table along with the latest equipment such as high-pressure water jetting equipment as well as a CCTV drain camera kit that can be used to identify a more complicated problem.”

That RSJ Drains aims to satisfy its customers is exemplified in how the drain engineers handle the situation at customer site. Upon arrival at the customer site, the drain engineers inspect the problem and make a quote based on the work required. There is complete transparency in pricing and no hidden costs or upsells are added to complete the job. Only after receiving customer consent to proceed does the work commence.

A customer, Smith L., left the following review on Google: “I can recommend this company highly enough. RSJ Drains are the most professional company and came out to clear my drains within an hour. The cost reflected the work and we are so happy.”
