Enzo's Private Selection, based in Buffalo, NY, is feeling almost overwhelmed by the scale of positive reviews they have received for their green tea product. Recently, customer Cindy Batchelor even released a YouTube video expressing how happy she was with the product. The product is available on Amazon, where it continues to sell very quickly.

"We really want to thank Cindy Batchelor for her review," says Robert Cruso from Enzo's Private Collection. "We love hearing back from our customers and it means a lot to us. Cindy's review really expresses all the benefits that we believe our product to have, and it is wonderful to see that we are achieving our objectives in that way."

Besides releasing a video on the green tea powder, Cindy Batchelor also wrote an entire blog post, which includes recipes on what to do with the tea. These include a cup of regular green tea, a cup of latte, and a full smoothie. She also provides a number of tips on how to make a cup warmer or more frothier, depending on individual tastes.

"I've been a tea drinker for years after learning that it is fabulous for boosting metabolism and helping you lose weight!" says Cindy Batchelor. "I only recently discovered Enzo's Green Tea, and have been completely impressed with how many more benefits I get from drinking it over regular green tea! Not only that, but its yummiier! I think you will be amazed too!"

Enzo's Private Collection has noticed that the sale of the product on Amazon has been steadily increasing over the past few weeks. The positive reviews are also coming in very regularly, which further demonstrates just how well-received the product is. It offers a number of health benefits, as well as tasting really good, so it is no surprise that people are enjoying it so much. Luckily, Enzo has been prepared for an influx in orders, so they have increased their stocks of the USDA certified organic green tea powder, thereby making sure that nobody who wants to drink Enzo Matcha green tea will be disappointed.

Enzo's Private Selection

It all started from a young man, named Enzo, needing the extra boost of energy to keep up with his college studies. He traveled the world during his internship and found himself visiting a tea farm. The company was founded there when Enzo tried Matcha.
