TRUSSVILLE, Ala. ? In an effort to promote their award-winning hearing technology, hearing aid specialist in Trussville, Beltone USA, has recently offered residents in their community, who live with hearing loss, the opportunity to participate in an exclusive trial of their newest hearing aid, the Beltone Amaze?. Those who qualify for the trial were fit with the new Beltone Amaze? hearing aid. The company hopes to receive firsthand feedback on the device?s sound quality, comfort, and appearance from participants of the trial.

The high-tech hearing aid in Trussville, AL has the latest and fastest micro-processing technology built-in directly to allow simplified connectivity to most mobile devices and Beltone?s Direct Line wireless accessories. Qualified patients are offered the opportunity to try the technology with no obligation to buy but offers an exclusive rebate for those participants who wish to continue using the technology at the conclusion of the trial.

The Beltone Amaze? was awarded the 2020 BIG Innovation Award for Android Streaming Technology from the Business Intelligence Group in January of this year. The sought-after award recognizes the Beltone Amaze? for its unique, breakthrough technology which allows the hearing aid to directly stream phone calls, music, and other sounds into the hearing aid from devices that run on the Android operating system. Previously, this direct streaming technology was limited to use by Apple devices only. Furthermore, the battery life of the hearing aid is extended by using Bluetooth Low Energy technology.

The technology trial was limited to a select number of offices in the state of Alabama but interested parties are encouraged to contact their local Beltone office to give the Beltone Amaze? a trial of their own.
