February 27, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

White Plains, NY - Banville Law, a White Plains, NY personal injury law firm, has announced the opening of a new office in White Plains to better serve clients in the local community.

"Opening our new location will allow our legal team to provide the best service possible to White Plains clients. It will also allow us to become more involved in the local community," said Laurence Banville, the managing lawyer at Banville Law.

Banville Law's White Plains personal injury attorneys fight for justice for clients who were injured because of car accidents, truck accidents, bus accidents, construction accidents, pedestrian accidents, bicycle accidents, and slip and fall accidents.

Other legal complaints that the law office handles include child injury, birth injury, medical malpractice, sexual assault, and wrongful death.

In addition to working with clients who have filed a personal injury lawsuit, the attorneys at Banville Law also aid those who are struggling with workers? compensation claims and social security disability claims.

?Each of our attorneys understands that although the law allows accident victims to take legal action against negligent parties, many have a difficult time affording the services that will provide them with the legal help that they need. That?s why our law firm offers free consultations and works on a contingency fee, which means that our clients don?t spend anything until compensation is recovered,? stated Banville.

The office opened several months ago in December 2019, with the White Plains personal injury attorneys serving clients in White Plains, Harrison, Purchase, Elmsford, Hartsdale, and Greenwich.

The White Plains office location is Banville Law 44 S Broadway #100, White Plains, NY 10601, USA. The law office can be reached by phone at (914) 228-1866.
