Denver, Colorado - March 05, 2020 -
Mykaratestore.com LLC has announced that Judo gi patches are now available on their online store. These patches are a recent addition to the e-commerce store at mykaratestore.com and there is a particular placement of specific patches that should be followed on the Judo gi. Certain patches are often used to indicate affiliation with a particular Judo association, lineage of a Judo instructor, focus of training, and achievement or level of competency.

Judo uniforms are available in a wide range and styles of designs. However, the type and embellishment on the Judo gi will be mostly based on the student?s skill level. Meanwhile, it is important to keep the uniform clean and in great condition. Most uniforms are constructed from cotton or polyester. They are available in three variations. The lightweight variety is for kids, the middleweight variety is for adults, and the heavyweight variety is for the highly experienced Judo instructor.

Patches need to be secured to the uniform with double stitching because they may be ripped off during Judo randori training. Likewise, the Judo gi must be heavy duty and of high quality to withstand the stress when being grabbed by opponents for throws. Judo gis are usually made of cotton material and are provided with several levels of reinforcement, including reinforced stitching. They are available in a variety of colors and they can be single weave or double weave.

A Judo instructor may provide a particular patch to indicate that a particular student has mastered certain skill levels in various elements of Judo training. One example of a patch for Judo gi has a size of 2 1/2? x 4? and has the word ?Judo? written on it in Japanese characters. This is a traditional type of patch worn by Judo students.

Another common Judo gi patch has the Cherry Blossom emblem. This is a famous emblem in Judo, as it is employed by the Kodokan. Cherry blossoms have a powerful meaning in Japanese culture and can be one of the meaningful ways to show certain aspects of the origins of Judo with a particular class or specific student. This particular patch is 3.25? by 3? in size. Also available is the Judo Fight Scene patch. This is a round patch with a diameter of 3.5 inches. It depicts two judoka who are engaged in Randori, which is a kind of sparring in Judo.
