In the review in question, found on the company?s Google profile, Kel says, ?We recently completed a home renovation project with Corefront and were very pleased with the entire process and result. We replaced our dated kitchen as well as expanded the reno to include new ceilings, railings, lighting and flooring throughout our home. The whole project was well organized from beginning to end: initial planning and costing estimates, creation of a design plan and selection of everything from cabinets to flooring etc, demolition and construction and final installation and finishing. Throughout, the continuing communication and onsite supervision resulted in the project proceeding well. All the trades used were professional and resulted in an excellent finished product. We would have no reservations about recommending Corefront to anyone else.?

Lewis Cowie, a representative for Corefront, comments, ?At Corefront, our goal is to provide the best service in Calgary?s renovation industry to every single one of our clients. In all our projects, we put clarity, integrity and transparency at the forefront, and our team works their hardest to provide a thorough and exact service. Each step of the way, through the exciting journey of transforming your property into the dream home that you want, we?re with you. As a full service construction management firm, we guarantee that each detail of your job receives the best care in the business. The completion was on time, and the project team kept us updated on a regular basis. The designer used by Corefront used our thoughts and wishes to craft a modern design in the home. This was enhanced by the clean lines, as executed by the Corefront team that changed our house into an open concept that is both spacious and warm. A great job upgrading our home.?

In another review, Emily B. says, ?We had our basement renovated. We chose Corefront out of three companies we interviewed because they listened to what we wanted and made it happen. They were polite and communicated well with us. We did have a few concerns; however, these were dealt with promptly and professionally. We are very pleased with our basement. We recommend Corefront without hesitation.?
