March 02, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Bed bugs have been becoming a larger and larger problem in Columbus, Ohio so one extermination company makes the jump to help solve that problem. Pest Control of Columbus is now offering bed bug extermination and treatment services to people and businesses residing in the Columbus area.

"Bed bugs are by far one of the hardest pests to get rid of. They are incredibly small and breed fast as well as only coming out at night. All of these factors make them a very formidable opponent to battle. We advise that you call a professional the moment you begin to suspect a problem rather than waiting for a full blown infestation to happen," stated the owner of Pest Control of Columbus.

Regular inspections of a home or business can keep property owners aware of any potential problems and help to keep the property pest free. Bed bugs are hard to spot unless a person knows what to look for which is why hiring a professional is the best way to go. They can easily go undetected until they have taken over.

The owner stated, "The first thing our company does is an inspection to be sure that bed bugs are actually present and not a similar pest such as fleas. If you let them get worse rather than being proactive, it will cost you more money for multiple treatments in the long run. Catching the pests early is going to be your best bet on ensuring they are able to be treated for effectively."

Bed bugs are very good at hiding themselves and then striking when everyone is asleep. For people that wake up with bites who aren't sure where the bites came from, calling a professional pest control Columbus exterminator should be the next step. Bed bugs are a lot easier to deal with when they are caught early.

The owner also stated that property owners should always inspect anything secondhand being brought into the business or home. Regularly inspecting bedding and mattresses can be beneficial in the fight against bed bugs as well.
