Towson, Maryland - Towson, MD based Towson Roofing Pros is pleased to inform their loyal customers that they have recently added cedar and shake shingles to their expansive product catalog. Customers will be able to order these roofing materials as early as their next roofing project, and the company is always on hand to lend their expertise and professional recommendations to all who need it. Towson Roofing Pros primarily serves homeowners in the Towson and Baltimore area.

As the company echoes, home is where the heart is, and many local residents are especially fond of giving their homes an aesthetic appeal that represents who they are as well as suits their tastes. Cedar and shake shingles, the company asserts, are therefore a great way to add a more personalized charm to any home.

They explain in a recent blog post on the subject that, "Wood roofing comes in two style types? wood shingles or wood shakes. The only difference is the appearance of your cedar roof, once installed. Cedar shingles are machine cut and tapered off for a crisp and clean appearance while cedar shakes are hand-split, giving them a more rustic appeal.? However, the visual beauty of these materials is not the only reason that the discerning homeowner would choose to have them installed.

For instance, local homeowners tend to prefer cedar and shake shingles because cedar is a relatively lightweight roofing material. Given that roofs are meant to be durable enough to last for extensively long periods without fault, even decades, every bit of extra weight that is reduced can lessen the strain they endure over the course of several years. The company points out that, ?Towson is known to have wet summers and snowy winters, which can contribute significant wear and tear to your home's roof.? Cedar shingles weigh less than many other roofing materials, yet they have the benefit of being strong enough for sustained use. They also offer a reasonable degree of moisture protection.

Towson Roofing Pros has been in the business of installing, maintaining and restoring roofs for many years. Over the course of this period, they have always relied on a team of roofing professionals who all boast a great deal of experience and expertise in the field. This deep knowledge of roofing gives them the ability to work alongside their customers in order to build a roof that suits both the latter?s requirements and preferences. Their confidence in their work is such that they are willing to offer a free estimate to all the customers who reach out to them. This is especially useful since it can give homeowners an idea of the budget they need before they make any commitments. They can also use this opportunity to request the company?s insight on the work they want done.

The company?s commitment to excellent work and customer service is evident in the reviews they receive online. On their Google profile, for instance, a 5-Star review from Veronica Brown shares that, ?I had leakage on my patio, but I do not know where the crack was because I have a wooden deck on top. So, I needed someone to not just fix it but also to remove and put back the wooden deck for me. Towson Roofing Pros was very helpful, honest and efficient. They re-roofed my entire patio and put back my deck in one day. Really excellent job!?

Similarly, another top-rated review from Marvin Choi reports that, ?I would like to give a big thank you to the folks at Towson Roofing Pros for doing such a good job with our new siding and roofing. We have received many compliments from our neighbors. We have recommended you to all of them. Thanks again.?
