The Mortgage Bureau has launched a new website for its office in Ely, Cambridgeshire, England. With the new website, they hope to provide a better experience for people visiting their site. The site is now mobile responsive, which means that it will display easily and appropriately on a mobile gadget just like on a PC screen. And the various elements of the site have been arranged in such a way that navigation is much easier. And most of all, they expect people to have an easier time finding what they?re looking for.

They are a provider of assistance and advice to people regarding the financing of their current home or the home they are planning to buy. This is essential particularly for first-time buyers who would want to get the best deal when it comes to financing the purchase of their home. It is important to point out that what the company wants to establish is a long-time relationship with each client, providing guidance and regular reviews so that it is possible to get a better deal when it makes financial sense to do so.

A spokesperson for The Mortgage Bureau says, ?We're excited to announce that we have recently launched a new website for our Ely office. With this new site, users are expected to find navigating the site much easier and more enjoyable. But more importantly, we expect users to find it much easier to find what they are looking for.? He adds, ?Home movers have the advantage that The Mortgage Bureau is independent of all estate agents which ensures that their budget is never known to the selling agent. This also benefits buy to let landlords as they build their property portfolios.?

It is important to note that The Mortgage Bureau is independent of lenders and real estate agents. This means that all client information is guaranteed to be private and confidential because they don?t share any systems or office space with estate agents. One key piece of information is the budget of the home buyer. If the property seller or agent is aware of the buyer?s budget, this can have a significant effect when the buyer tries to negotiate the selling price. If the seller or agent does not know the budget, the home buyer may be able to get the best possible price for the specific home. The independent financial advisors from The Mortgage Bureau will also recommend the most competitive life insurance products because they have access to all providers.

The Ely office of The Mortgage Bureau is strategically located on the Eastern bypass that is near the mainline train station and the Tesco supermarket on a small business park with sufficient parking space. The office is just a short walk into town where the offices of local estate agents are situated. Their other offices that are nearby are in Bury St Edmunds, King?s Lynn, Cambridge, or Peterborough, in case one of these is more convenient for the client. From their office in Ely, they serve customers from South Norfolk, Cambridgeshire, and Suffolk.

To make use of the services provided by The Mortgage Bureau, people just need to take a number of steps. Step one is to call their office and talk with one of their professionals. Step two is to agree on the home financing deal in principle. Step three is to look for a particular home. Step four is to complete all required documentation.
