

Brancaster Stays Is Proud Of Its Reviews To Date

March 12, 2020

March 12, 2020 -
Brancaster Staithe, Norfolk based Brancaster Stays is extremely pleased to announce that it has maintained a 4.9/5 Star rating since its launch in July 2018. The Bed and Breakfast (B&B), which has self-catering apartments rather than guests staying in the home, is an excellent base for travellers who want to use the Coasthopper Bus Service to explore the North Norfolk Coast. The nearest Coasthopper stop lies within 100 yards from the property.

Jude Olesen, who owns Brancaster Stays with her husband Thomas, states that ?We want to thank each and every one of our guests who have taken time to leave their feedback online. We were both born and brought up in Norfolk, and having moved back to Brancaster Staithe, we want everyone to come and enjoy the huge variety of things to do and see. No day is ever like any other.?

Jude Olesen ensures that the accommodation meets her meticulous standards for cleanliness, which is one prominent reason the B&B has a policy barring pets and children not in their teen years from staying there. Their guests? appreciation of this policy is reflected in their reviews as well, including a 5-Star Google review from Ian Percival, who says that they stayed in, ?A beautifully kept room, ideal for a short break and so well located, away from the roads but a hop, skip and jump from everywhere interesting. Can't praise highly enough.?

Those who wish to check out what others have said can read more detailed reviews from the booking system where 100% of the reviews recommend Brancaster Stays. Many share this perspective from a guest from Norwich, who says that they had, ?A lovely apartment in a relaxing and convenient location, with very helpful hosts?can definitely recommend. It was a great place to stay whilst walking part of the north Norfolk coast, and we hope to return one day!?

Another review from Hannah, on FreeToBook.com, also gave them a 5-Star rating across the board. The review says, ?We stayed in the Far apartment. It was beautiful, very clean and modern. Jude was lovely and very welcoming, even down to the little touch of homemade Victoria sponge waiting for us when we got there! Would definitely recommend and stay again." Hannah goes on to leave a tip for those who book Brancaster Stays, saying, ?The local pub, the Jolly Sailor had lovely food. We went for dinner and it felt like a home-cooked meal. Brancaster beach is lovely. Unfortunately, we got caught in storm Dennis, so we couldn't appreciate it properly. Other beaches like Hunstanton aren't too far and have lots to do."

Jude Olesen concludes, ?We will do everything we can to make sure you have the most enjoyable stay with us, including providing directions to nearby attractions, some of our favourite popular dishes at local restaurants and some hidden gems you may want to claim for your own Norfolk adventure. If you are thinking about a summer holiday or even retiring to the beautiful wilds of North Norfolk, Brancaster Stays is the ideal base from which to explore the entire area. Come for the sea air, the beaches and the good food, and enjoy the endless skies.?

The area is also well known for some of the best upscale and casual restaurants along England?s east coast, which makes the self-catering Bed and Breakfast the perfect option for holidaymakers who want to seize the day and follow whatever takes their fancy. Privacy ensures that they can come and go as they please, enjoying their clean, roomy and warm apartment with Super-King sized bed and ensuite bathroom (with an oversized shower). The apartments also feature smart TVs and Wifi, should they be needed in addition to the kitchenette.

To avoid disappointment, those who wish to enjoy the modern, intimate self-catering apartments are encouraged to make reservations through Brancaster Stays? official website or the FreeToBook portal. More information regarding the accommodations can be found on the website as well, and interested parties may direct any further inquiries to Jude Olesen.
