Monarch Environmental, a landscaping company based out of Capistrano Beach, California, is proud to shed light on the intricacies of their contract management services for the public's benefit. The company is dedicated to sharing its expertise on land, soil, water, and trees with the entirety of Southern California.

Monarch excels in contract management and project management advisory services, utilizing technology to analyze trends and predict success. The company's team of landscape experts has overseen tens of millions of dollars in landscape master planning, installation, and renovation. They assert that communication, verification, and reporting are vital to them when it comes to any project. Monarch's team of experts leverage experience and industry know-how to ensure each of their clients gets the most out of their landscape. Their experts utilize their knowledge as well as Monarch's custom and accessible web interfaces (which allow the client to view reports and data online at any time). The company claims that it is their commitment to objectivity and excellence that separates them from the competition.

Sam Bretzmann, a vendor for Monarch Environmental, says, "They strive to improve the lives they impact, the landscapes they oversee and the communities they serve. Monarch bridges the gap between you and landscape contractors. Their experts know what it takes to make contractors more accountable and ensure that they deliver the best possible results. Pooling their expertise in horticulture, arboriculture, pest control, irrigation management, strategic planning, and successful landscape maintenance operations, their elite team makes objective recommendations to meet your needs first."

He continues, "Built on principles of professionalism and integrity, Monarch offers assessments and recommendations that are completely objective and unbiased. They never promote products or vendors for their own gain. Their sole aim is to help property owners realize the greatest possible return on their landscape investment."

The company was founded in 2008 by Matt Davenport, who had previously worked extensively in ornamental horticulture maintenance, construction, water management, and arboriculture. As a thought leader in the green industry, Matt was named one of the top 35 leaders under age 35 by nationally syndicated Lawn and Landscape Magazine. With Matt's experienced and passionate leadership, Monarch Environmental aims to be a one-stop-shop for any and all landscaping needs, prioritizing green initiatives above all.

Monarch Environmental's provision of stellar services has earned them a lot of praise from their clients. On the Google platform, the landscaping company has a perfect rating of 5/5 Stars. In a recent review, Michelle Thomson, Senior Community Manager at PCM, says, "Monarch Environmental has taken the time-consuming task of detailed landscape oversight out of the Community Managers' daily routine. At the same time, they have created teamwork between the Landscape Company, Community Manager, Board of Directors and Homeowners."

Meanwhile, in another review, Vice President of Powerstone Property Management Laurisa Quella says, "Mr. Davenport and his team at Monarch are the epitome of professionalism and integrity! Monarch has implemented programs that resulted in over $350,000 in water savings, obtaining $100,000 in rebates for replacement of irrigation controllers, establishment and implementation of a 5-Year Master Plan for removal of aged plant material and replanting of approximately 150 acres of slopes, and working hand-in-hand with the Board and Landscape Committee toward the upgrade and beautification of the project. Monarch's commitment to service, honesty, and excellence is unmatched! Monarch is thorough in their evaluations and unbiased in their reports—always keeping in mind their responsibility to the Board and homeowners in making recommendations for the best interest of the community as a whole. Mr. Davenport is a true professional, and his obvious passion for his job and commitment to the communities that he works with is unparalleled."
