VEI Communications Offers Radio Rentals In Louisville, KY

March 31, 2020

VEI Communications, a communication rental and installation service based out of Louisville, Kentucky, is reaching out to the wider community to announce that they are offering radio rentals for any size event in and around the Louisville, Kentucky area. Since their inception, the company has been the region?s leader in reliable and custom communications solutions, two way radio rentals and other communication-related services.

The company offers only top quality products for rent, each of which are backed up by some of the best brand names in the business. With office locations across Kentucky and Indiana (such as Russellville, Evansville and Vincennes in addition to Louisville) and their ability to provide all their services to clients within 60 miles of each of their locations, the company is able to cover nearly the entire region. The company is also proud to state that they make custom maintenance agreements that are designed to keep their clients in control of their equipment. Furthermore, VEI Communications also provides around the clock emergency services.

Dan Shepard, president of VEI Communications, says, ?We have been providing custom radio communication solutions since 1997. Our goal is to help you stay connected where and when it matters the most.? Dan explains that the company offers many varieties of products and services to ensure that their clients are able to take care of all their communication needs in one place.

In addition to two way radio rental and sales, the company also offers dispatch system design and installation, two way radio repair and installation and FleetTalk services for their consumers. VEI Communications work with all types of industries and commercial businesses, from those in areas such as public safety, healthcare, transportation, local and state government, schools, construction and more.

VEI Communications goes on to say that no matter how large or small a business? equipment inventory is, a maintenance agreement provided by VEI Communications can save their clients time, money and frustration. The best part, they assert, is that each company can customize their agreement in any way they like, including parts, labor or both. Further, with a custom maintenance agreement from the company, all of their clients are guaranteed to have peace of mind in knowing that their equipment is covered, along with predictable billing that is easy for equipment managers and accountants alike.

The company adds that, no matter the problem a business may be experiencing with their communications equipment or set up, the VEI Communications team is there to help find a solution that works for their client as well as for their business. Whether this is accomplished via equipment rental or a full system design (paired with VEI Communications? commitment to cutting-edge technology), the company guarantees custom-made solutions. The stellar services provided by VEI Communications have earned the company a lot of praise from their clients. On Google, the communications company has a near perfect rating of 4.8/5 Stars. In a recent review, Jack Hodgins shares his experience with the company, saying, ?Best customer service in the region and great products! I recently contacted VEI for help with some two way radios and handhelds, and I'm so glad I did. Highly recommended!?

In another review, which can be found on the company?s website, Kathy Mckinley Ho says, ?Great people. Very thorough. Treat customers with respect. Understands a customer?s security needs and privacy.? Similarly, Grant Matzel says of the company, ?Best in the business! They take care of your every need! Most cost effective option out there. The friendliest staff you'll find, anywhere.?
