Spring is a popular time for people to call their local painting contractor and schedule to get some work done. It?s no different for reputable O'Fallon, MO painting specialists HBP Painting. That?s why they advise anyone who wishes to take advantage of their highly-rated exterior painting services this spring to schedule and start planning that job as soon as possible. That way a customer can beat the rush and lack of more favorable scheduling spots that normally occur to their company each year when the more favorable spring painting weather arrives.

Cody Hartrum, co-owner of this family-run business, had this to say about why it?s important to schedule spring painting with them as soon as possible, ?We are a local painting contractor that takes great pride in what we do. Because of that, we focus on providing high-quality craftsmanship and exceptional customer service. It?s the way we have built the solid painting reputation that we have in the O?Fallon, Missouri area. To be frank, this also creates a great demand for our services each spring once the outside temperature is once again conducive to doing exterior painting projects. That?s why we urge those that want us to do their

O?Fallon spring painting projects for them to call us now to get a jump on the scheduling and planning that painting task.?

Hartrum went on to add that even though they have several talented painting crews available and working during the warm season, all of their crews still keep very busy during the spring and summer. He says that translates to the available spring painting slots that they offer being filled up fast. The co-owner says that people wishing to use HBP Painting for their spring painting services will have a better chance of scheduling those services at a time that?s convenient for them if they start discussing that painting project with them now. Hartrum added that scheduling is not the only reason that people should start discussing their spring painting projects with them before the warmer weather arrives. He says it also helps with the planning of those projects. Spring painting projects tend to go much smoother and stay on schedule if they are well-planned ahead a time. It also gives HBP Painting plenty of time to make sure the paints and other supplies needed for a job arrive well before the scheduled start date so the project suffers no initial delays.

The company co-owner also wants people in the O?Fallon area to know that they still do interior painting projects in the spring too. He says that many people in the area have the misconception that they only take on indoor painting projects over the winter and that is simply not true. Many homeowners and businesses in the area still require them to come to do their interior painting projects even when the weather outside is also favorable for doing exterior painting jobs. The company co-owner does caution that early scheduling and planning of their interior spring painting services is just as important as it is for their exterior painting services.

Hartrum also wanted to remind people that they still have a few interior painting slots available before their busy spring painting season hits. The co-owner concedes that years ago people were more reluctant to take on interior painting projects because of the strong smell that stayed behind long after the job was finished. He says that is no longer a problem because they use low-VOC paints whose fresh paint odor is very minimal just a few hours after it has been applied.

The Hartrum family has been in the painting business for five generations and over 30 years. The take care of the many different painting needs of those in St. Louis, St. Charles, and those in the surrounding areas. They offer both commercial and residential painting services.
