March 23, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Hafþór Júlíus Björnsson, who played The Mountain on the HBO show, is the latest star to join the Revive family.

Miami, Fla., March 19, 2020 -- Revive, a leader in the manufacturing of wellness supplements, is excited to announce their new partnership with Icelandic actor and professional athlete Hafþór Júlíus Björnsson.

The new partnership makes Revive the official and exclusive health supplement company powering Hafþór Júlíus Björnsson, or Thor as he is more commonly known. Björnsson has long been an advocate of Revive supplements because of the way the supplements have helped him reach his professional goals. With 3 million followers on Instagram alone, the 2018 winner of the World's Strongest Man competition will allow the brand to reach a broader audience through educational and meaningful content on different platforms.

"I'm excited to announce that I have joined up with the best vitamin and organ health supplement company on the planet," said Björnsson in a recent announcement on his Instagram page. "I started using Revive products a couple [of] months ago, and I was blown away by the quality, consistency, and overall professionalism of the brand."

By becoming the exclusive health supplement partner of Björnsson, Revive will team up with the actor for special promotions and campaigns aimed at educating a large and loyal fan base on the benefits of their supplements. Revive will also work closely with Björnsson to provide support in his continued pursuit of success both on-screen and off-screen.

Björnsson rose to fame in 2014 after landing the role of 'The Mountain' in the HBO original series Game of Thrones. However, his most impressive achievements have taken place outside of Hollywood. He won Europe's Strongest Man competition five times between 2014 and 2019. He was also crowned champion at the 2018 World's Strongest Man competition and won gold at the Arnold Strongman Classic in 2018, 2019, and 2020. Björnsson also owns his own gym and runs his own line of workout apparel and online workout guides.

'The initial draw to Thor might not be as expected,' said Revive co-founder Dominic Iacovone. 'Sure, we are thrilled to have him as part of our team for his achievements in strength and cementing himself as one of the best strength athletes of all time, but our initial draw to him was the fact that he reached out to us and let us know how impressed he was with our products. He wanted to be a part of this because he was already using and believing in Revive for himself.'
