August 18, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Smart Lawn Painting offers a convenient and affordable solution for an all-too-common problem, particularly in drought-stricken California. Summertime, for many people, means more than just fun in the sun and the end of classes for the scholastic year. For homeowners and small business owners alike, it means a dramatic increase in the headaches of dealing with lawn care and landscaping concerns. Outdoor work multiplies exponentially during the summer months, as does the unpleasantness of taking care of it: the back-breaking bending, kneeling, and stretching. The heavy, often hazardous landscaping equipment. The fertilizers, weedkillers, and other chemicals, and then ? to top it all off ? there's the summer sun, beating down upon the back of the unfortunate would-be landscaper's neck. It's a small wonder that so many people choose to hire landscapers to take care of even a modest front yard, particularly in a hot and arid environment ? such as that which is offered by much of the state of California. However, there are alternatives to the well-known options of hiring a landscaper ? or taking care of the landscaping on one's own. These are particularly viable options to bear in mind with the California drought now entering its fourth year running, and emergency water austerity measures having gone into effect.

Not watering the lawn means it's going to dry up and turn brown in short order. The typical homeowner's association is all too happy to take advantage of that, citing individual lawn care violations with fines of as much as $500 apiece. One is left with the option of either paying the fine, or else watering their lawn sufficiently to avoid browning. Given the existence of such measures as a state-run Website for reporting water waste within one's neighborhood, the latter is a particularly unattractive option... but who can afford to pay $500 every time someone from the HOA decides to drop by?

Lawn painting is the next best thing to a well-watered lawn. It is superior to artificial turf for a variety of reasons ? not the least of which being that, on a hot summer's day, artificial turf can reach temperatures of up to 180 degrees Fahrenheit. Here again, there are the disadvantages of performing landscaping work under the summertime sun, but the hiring of a professional lawn painter is both convenient and affordable. A 1,000 square foot lawn can be painted in half an hour or less by means of specialized, truck-mounted spraying equipment, with the painters themselves being there and gone in virtually no time at all. This kind of efficiency, coupled with well-testified reliability and affordable rates, makes Smart Lawn Painting the go-to solutions provider for a brown, dried-up lawn.
