March 24, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Los Angeles based workers' compensation law firm ODG Law Group (ODG) would like to announce that they are taking steps to protect their clients. They will be working to avoid breaching the guidelines set out to avoid the spread of COVID-19 while also continuing to provide service to workers around the country. Even with most businesses shutting down and walk-in service being all but impossible at most locations across the country, the firm will still be able to help clients who need workers compensation lawyers. ODG will continue operating as normal in most markets to meet their clients' needs.

"Since opening our doors in 2011, we have dedicated our practice to achieving a simple vision," the firm says, "to promote and protect the physical, emotional and financial well-being of the individuals and families who turn to us for help. At Oktanyan Der-Grigorian Law Group, Inc., we offer an alternative to the large, corporate law firms. As a boutique firm and a family-run business, we are owned and operated by compassionate and experienced lawyers who embrace the opportunity to work one-on-one with our clients. Although many firms talk about wanting to help people, we believe in living out that commitment every day."

ODG Law Group is a family practice and, as sisters working together, these workers compensation lawyers in Los Angeles understand the importance of family. They bring this sense of compassion, loyalty and dedication to each individual client's case to ensure they feel safe, welcome and well-represented. The firm's priority is to secure the benefits and compensation clients need to recover from work-related injuries. They do this by empowering their clients with the education and representation they require to make the best decisions in any given situation as well as the legal backing to take action.

Most firms look to resolve cases as quickly as possible so they can move on to the next client and make even more money. At ODG, the main concern is the well-being of the client. "We want to make sure that you receive full and fair compensation for all of your workplace injuries," says the firm. "As your attorneys, we look at every aspect of your case, both the major points and the minor details. We gather the relevant facts and pursue all the benefits that may be needed to cover all of your immediate medical expenses, lost wages, damages and any long-term treatment you may require to treat your injuries. Your company will probably try to give you the bare minimum, and this is often just not enough. With our help, you won't have to worry about hospital bills, lost wages or anything else that a workplace injury might throw at you."

With the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic, it may be difficult to get some of the services one might need, but ODG is still looking to help their clients get the compensation they deserve in these difficult times. As such, many of the firm's clients have left excellent reviews of ODG online, talking about the firm's excellent services and commitment to helping. "Dear ODG Law Group, thank you from the bottom of our hearts for your kindness, patience and guidance throughout this difficult process," one client writes. "We appreciate all the great work you have done for us, and for always having your client's best interests in mind. Best regards, HN."

Another client shares that, "We came to ODG Law Group to find an attorney who could help us out with my husband's workers compensation case. Leanna was our attorney in this process. She is so professional, knowledgeable and helpful. She was so helpful and patient when we had any question regarding the case."
