Professional plumbing maintenance is helping homeowners in South Carolina avoid costly water damage, says Broad River Plumbing, the Best Plumbing Services in Hilton Head Island, SC.

Water damage is costing insurance companies an estimated $2.5 billion each year. While water damage caused by natural disasters like storms and hurricanes can?t be avoided, there is one source of water damage that can still be given a solution ? plumbing. Leaks, burst pipes, and faulty plumbing fixtures can result in severe damage.

But according to experts, professional plumbing can also help avoid expensive water damage. Among the most common plumbing maintenance that can help prevent water damage is a sewer and drain cleaning services. Problems in the sewer and drain can cause clogging.

Drainage clogging also causes water overflows, which run onto walls and floors. These surfaces are usually not designed to take water in such amounts, which may result in water damage. Water can find its way under the surface tiles, thereby eroding plaster on the floors and wallpaper from walls. The resulting moisture promotes the growth of mold, which makes these surfaces lose their structural integrity.

Enlisting professional sewer and drain cleaning, repair, or replacement services can help avoid the pains associated with clogged drains, the most significant one being the financial implications. Broad River Plumbing provides the Best Sewer and Drain Cleaning Service in Hilton Head Island SC, thereby increasing the lifespan and aesthetic value of floor and wall surfaces.
