March 27, 2020 -
Qik Car Title Loans has revealed that they want to educate consumers on the economic impact of COVID-19 as the US Senate and President Trump reached a deal for $2 trillion stimulus package to counteract that impact. While the deal still requires approval by the Senate and the House of Representatives, the stock market had responded positively with the Dow Jones Industrial Average gaining more than 2,100 points. Nevertheless, Qik Car Title Loans warns consumers that they may still find themselves in a situation where they don?t have sufficient funds to pay their bills, such as when there is a medical emergency. The company offers fast approval emergency financial assistance applications so that consumers would be able to pay their financial obligations during such situations. Those who are interested in learning more about the company can check out their various releases on their media room at https://www.pressadvantage.com/organization/qik-car-title-loans-main .

Henry Jones from Qik Car Title Loans says, ?The financial help that we provide will just require you to use your car as collateral, meaning if your car has enough value, you can use it to back your application. If you?re the sole owner of your car, you can get an amount using the value of your vehicle. For example, if you own a car that has a current market resale value of $10,000, you can get up to $10,000 from us. We offer a good alternative for those who are unable to get such financial assistance from the bank. We offer a fast, easy, and convenient way of getting the amount that you need. In most cases, banks can take over a week just to look over your application and you end up losing precious time if they deny your application. With us, you can get approved in under 15 minutes and get the amount you need in just one business day.?

Banks and similar financial institutions normally take a week to approve an application for financial help. Therefore, the money that can be obtained through a bank may not be on time for the consumer?s emergency needs. On the other hand, Qik Car Title Loans is able to approve an application in less than 15 minutes. And there are just a few requirements for the consumer?s application to get approved. First, the applicant must be at least 18 years old and has a monthly income not lower than $1,500. Also, the vehicle must be free from any lien; must be completely paid off, meaning the applicant is really the owner of the car; and it must have sufficient market value.

The financial assistance that they can offer to consumers will require that the customer own a car that has enough equity value. The amount of cash that can be obtained from Qik Car Title Loans will be based on the current market resale value of the vehicle. For example, if the resale value of the car is $8,000, that is the specific amount can be offered by the company, immediately. This is a good option for consumers who find it impossible to get financial assistance from the bank because they have a poor credit score. There are various reasons why people may want to opt for the service offered Qik Car Title Loans in times of emergency. These include: flexible payment plans that can be adjusted based on the customer?s financial circumstances; possibility of getting the required amount within the next business day; fast loan approval, where the applicant can find out within 15 minutes if the application has been approved; and the fact that the customer can still keep the car and drive it around.

Those who have used the services of Qik Car Title Loans have used the amount obtained for various purposes. These include the payment of utility bills, funeral expenses, medical bills, work equipment, new home appliances, home remodels, plumbing repairs, wedding expenses, sudden emergencies, business expenses, personal use, and school tuition.
