March 31, 2020 -
Calgary, Alberta based Furnace Repair Calgary recently published a new blog post that offers insight into their response to COVID-19. The family owned-and-operated company has been providing furnace services to residential property owners in Calgary and the surrounding areas since they launched their services in 2011. More information about the company can be found at the following link: https://furnace-repair-calgary-ab.business.site/.

Matthew Hannigan, a representative for Furnace Repair Calgary, says, ?Without a doubt, the coronavirus disease is one of the biggest challenges we as a people will face. It has already changed so much of our lives, bringing governments and businesses to a grinding halt and forcing us to stay indoors. It is no surprise that the World Health Organization has declared it a pandemic. In times like this, each of us has a duty to our fellow man and, at Furnace Repair Calgary, we take that duty seriously.?

In the blog post, the company writes, ?At Furnace Repair Calgary, the health and safety of our staff, their families and our customers are always the number one priority. We are following the guidelines set out by Alberta Health Services to ensure that our team provides you with safe heating and cooling services. Please know that we are taking appropriate measures to ensure our team pays attention to the health and well-being of everyone involved.?

The company explains in the blog post that they have provided hand sanitizers and antiseptic wipes to all of their team members and asked any employee showing any symptoms to self-isolate. Further, the company has also imposed a new rule that makes it mandatory for employees who have travelled recently to stay at home for a minimum of two weeks. The blog post also says that all of the company?s technicians will now wear face masks and other personal protection equipment. Furnace Repair Calgary asserts that all of their employees have read the Community-Based Measures to Mitigate the Spread of Coronavirus (COVID-19) Disease in Canada. The blog post can be found at the following link: https://furnacerepaircalgaryca.wordpress.com/.

Furnace Repair Calgary also asks that, if customers are feeling ill, to contact the company so that they can reschedule the appointment (unless it is an emergency). Furnace Repair Calgary states that they will continue to monitor this crisis extremely closely and will update customers if required. The company advises that their community visit the Public Health Agency of Canada?s website in order to stay up to date with the state of the pandemic.

The company offers a variety of services that include furnace repair, furnace installation, furnace and duct cleaning, boiler repair, air conditioning and HVAC maintenance plans. They offer furnace and heating repair services with guaranteed prompt service within hours, rather than days. Hannigan says, ?Anyone who has lived in Alberta knows how cold it can get in the winter months, and being without your heating for even a day is nearly impossible. We know that from personal experience, and we don?t want anyone else to suffer that. No one wants to wait around for days or weeks before a furnace technician is able to diagnose and repair the furnace so that it can once again provide the warmth that is needed inside a home, but that will never be a concern for you when you partner with Furnace Repair Calgary.?

Hannigan adds, ?If you believe that you need repairs or a new furnace, never hesitate to call us. We?re there for you with the expertise that is necessary to make sure that your furnace is working up to par. If your furnace is no longer serviceable, we will provide you with a free equipment assessment so that we can give you options that fit your budget and lifestyle. We can guarantee that you will be happy with the prices and the work that is performed.?
