Toronto, Ontario based Air Conditioning Repair Toronto is delighted to announce that they have launched a new website. It not only updates the look and feel of the company?s previous online platform, it also incorporates many new features and optimizes content for mobile platforms such as tablets and smartphones.

Gerald C. Nagata, speaking on behalf of Air Conditioning Repair Toronto, says, ?We are embracing new technology that can help our customers find us and make it easy for them to contact us. We wanted something that would allow them to call or contact us any time of the day or night, every day of the week. Right now, due to the COVID-19 situation, we have had many calls from those who want to have their AC units checked and to have a tune-up to ensure that they and their families are breathing safe, clean air. Our seamless service enables us to address even the most complicated problems, from a simple repair to on-going maintenance, and when needed, to replace and install a new unit.?

Air Conditioning Repair Toronto has been providing professional air conditioning and heating services to homeowners throughout Greater Toronto since 2011. They have set up a highlighted area to show the entire region they cover on a Google Map in order to help anyone in need of assistance to locate them quickly and easily. Since their inception, the company has sought to provide the best services, offering outstanding workmanship and quality products while keeping prices at affordable rates at the same time.

When air conditioning units are installed properly, they help reduce the humidity and moisture levels in a home. A thorough understanding of the duct wiring and network is essential for a proper installation process, however. Air Conditioning Repair Toronto advises everyone to rely on an experienced and knowledgeable contractor rather than undertaking repairs on their own. The company is proud to have a highly skilled team with some of the best experts in the industry. Each of their team members are trained in all aspects of the HVAC industry.

Besides having professionals on the job who deliver high quality workmanship, their customers also benefit from their highly rated customer service, which takes a practical and drama-free approach to emergencies. The company?s aim is to help ensure that obtaining essential repairs and services is as hassle-free as possible. This potent combination means that homeowners benefit from getting the best service available.

Nagata continues, ?We hope visitors, new and existing alike, will find the new website useful and easier to use. It is much easier to navigate now and has all the important information they could need. They may get in touch with us directly through the website as well. We will be aiming to add more features over time to keep everyone informed. The revamp of our site has helped bring us up to date online, and this is in line with our reliable, professionally trained and certified heating and air conditioning technicians.? A quote with clear pricing information may be requested through the website as well.

Maintaining their A+ Better Business Bureau rating, Air Conditioning Repair Toronto is recognized nationally for being one of the most experienced and knowledgeable cooling and heating contractors in the industry. The firm also provides financing and rebates where available, along with warranties for those looking to replace their air conditioning and heating unit.

Customers who rely on scheduled maintenance services for their HVAC system know the value of keeping their unit in tip top shape. Regular maintenance and tune-ups can help extend the life of an air conditioning and heating unit. In addition to avoiding very costly emergency repair bills, they can also reduce ongoing cooling and heating bills, saving money and reducing their carbon footprint.

Interested parties are welcome to reach out to the company at their earliest convenience in order to find out how Air Conditioning Repair Toronto can help maintain a household air conditioning and heating unit.
