August 27, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Atlanta fire and water damage restoration company Georgian Locator is proud to announce the addition of mold removal services to its portfolio. The company has long been known for the fantastic work it provides in terms of water and fire damage and it was felt that adding mold removal as a service was a logical next step. This means the company will now also be able to help those customers who either have not had water damage, or who don't realize it.

"Mold is a normal consequence of water damage," says a spokesperson for Georgian Locator. "However, many people don't realize they have a problem with water damage until the mold starts to appear and the rest of the property may not be damaged yet. We want to be able to help these people remove the mold from their property so that they can avoid structural damage, as well as ensure they have clean breathing air."

Their water damage restoration services are in high demand whenever Mother Nature does her worst. It can also happen that people have burst pipes or other issues with their plumbing that have caused a property to flood. These services help to restore the property to its previous state. They will also help remove sediment and look into whether mold is starting to form.

The company offers professional services when it comes to disaster relief. Never is this more obvious than after a fire. "A fire is probably the most frightening thing that someone can experience," adds the representative. "The worst thing is that people often don't have time to cope with those feelings of fear, because they are then faced with a severely damaged property. We are there to help them."

After a fire, water damage is also very common as water has been used to put the fire out. This means that in both cases, the risk of mold developing is significantly increased. As can be seen on the company's website, georgianlocator.com, this is not always addressed. However, thanks to their new service, people who have mold without any obvious water or fire damage can also turn to Georgian Locator.
