Custom Creative Remodeling has a long and storied tradition for bringing to fruition some of the most upscale home, kitchen and bath remodels that have been done in the Phoenix and Scottsdale, Arizona areas over the last few years. They have even won numerous awards within the state of Arizona for their outstanding custom remodeling work combined with their history of excellent customer service. Company owner, Praveen Puranan, assures their future customers that they will continue to build upon the excellent foundation that the company has already established.

Puranan had this to say on the matter, "We are a company that prides itself on not being your typical home remodeling contractor and that suits us just fine because we never set out to be that. Our company is one that typically deals with high-end custom remodeling projects that leave our customers in awe when they see the completed projects. We also happily assist our clients in every phase of a remodeling project from its inception to completion. This is the reason that we have received so many awards for our custom remodeling jobs over the years. So, if you're looking to completely change the look of the interior of your home you need to call CCR. We will take your vision for your remodel from design to reality in a way that you never imagined to be possible."

He went on to mention that some of the awards that they have been recognized with for their upscale home remodels include the NARI Contractor of the Year: Kitchen & Bath Award in 2016 and they have been recognized with the Best of Houzz Award every year since 2016. They are also affiliated with the National Association of the Remodeling Industry (NARI) and the American Society of Interior Designers. Custom Creative Remodeling also is rated A+ by their local chapter of the Better Business Bureau.

Puranan also mentioned that they typically deal in mid to high-level home remodeling projects that cost upwards of 30,000 or more. He says that they are a contractor that realizes when they are dealing with those types of figures, they absolutely must provide the highest quality work which is nicely complemented by outstanding customer service. They are a contractor that believes that exceptional service and making sure the customer is extremely happy should always be a top priority. He says all of their crews will also show that they genuinely care and take pride in how the company's projects turn out.

The company owner also mentioned that not only do they have excellent construction crews working for them but he also credits much of the company's success to their experienced and innovative design team. He stated that they are highly skilled when it comes to taking a client's remodeling wishes and making them come to life. They also will not try and push their ideas on any customer they help with a remodeling design. Puranan said they will instead just help shape the customer's ideas by offering sound advice that is taken from experience and stays in alignment with the customer's proposed budget for the project. The owner says that they even use advanced software applications so their clients can get a glimpse of what their finished product will look like. This will allow them to make any necessary changes before any upscale remodeling project has even begun.

Puranan also reminded that high end remodels are something that is always a worthwhile investment. That's because they help shape any home more to the owner's liking and will pay for themselves if that homeowner ever decides to put that house up for sale. He mentioned that their customers are often amazed when they find out how much more functional their homes are after Custom Creative Remodeling has renovated a bath, kitchen or other areas in them. The company owner says that for those that are looking for an outstanding home, kitchen or bath remodel contractor Phoenix, they always are welcome to contact them by phone, email or the contact form found on the company website.
