Atif is a trained corporate lawyer who left that profession to follow his passion for property investing. Upon seeking lettings services, he was less than impressed with the fact that most letting agencies did not give him the peace of mind he wanted. Disappointed, he decided to create his own letting agency for servicing his own properties. It did not take long before other landlords sought his services. Such is the quality of his landlord services that his company ended up winning several awards.

One of the reasons for Intire's high standard of property management services originates from the fact that the company is highly focussed and does lettings only. The company's specialist team is trained, on the ball and up to date with over 100 regulations and requirements that are needed to be adhered to as a landlord.

The professional team at Intire is always ready to help and look after their client landlords, so there are no delays in the required services even if any of the team member is out of the office.

The team at Intire knows and loves Bristol and the surrounding areas, so their local knowledge is excellent and applied to the benefit of landlords.

Effective property marketing is key for getting tenants and avoiding voids. Intire provides its client landlords professional property marketing that makes use of the best of traditional and new technology-based options to get the best results.

Checking references of prospect tenants is important for short-listing quality tenants. Intire has developed an extremely robust internal referencing service that means the Intire staff carefully review each applicant themselves rather than relying on automated external agencies. The team at Intire knows that getting the best possible tenant will protect their client landlord's property and investment.

Working with Intire and using Intire's letting services is a great protection against void periods and re-let delays, simply because of the consistent performance and the outstanding track record.

Intire treat the properties under its management as an investment and make sure to regularly evaluate the market to give their client landlords the best insight.

From the tenancy paperwork and regulations, to looking after the tenants ? Intire does the tricky stuff on behalf of their client landlords so that they don't have to. The aim is to be so effective as their letting agent that they think letting property is easy.

Many landlords that Atif's letting agency serves are themselves business owners or entrepreneurs. Atif recently launched a success coaching and mentorship programme. Interested landlords can learn more about this via this link:
