Passionate Care LLC, a Valencia, California based company, recently received a glowing review from one of the customers of their scar removal gel. Raul Meza, owner and CEO of Passionate Care states that he was "completely astounded by the review and so happy that our product could help this woman." The review was sent in by a young woman who suffered a horrible car accident and had begun using the gel, with amazing results.

The car accident scar gel review from Lesley S. states, "I had my face nearly ripped off in a car accident less than a year ago (I was ejected face first through a car window). I started using this gel maybe 6 weeks after having all my stitches removed. Today, 10 months later, you can barely see my scars. It's amazing. I thought I was going to need plastic surgery. I can only imagine how they'll look in another 10 months. Thank you so much!"

The facial scar removal product comes in a 2 ounce jar, and contains the same premium ingredients that plastic surgeons use. It is designed for sensitive skin so it eliminates worries of itching and redness.

It works by flattening keloids, even those that have been evident for many years. It fades and lightens scars, even older scars, so that they are less noticeable, and many newer scars have been reported to have completely disappeared.

Passionate Care states that the gel can be used on scars related to injury or surgeries, and that it has been shown to be very effective in decreasing acne scars and stretch marks. The gel contains a number of ingredients that have been shown to be very effective in helping to eliminate scarring, such as Allantoin, potassium sorbate, and panthenol.

When using the gel just twice each day, scars will begin to fade significantly after just a few weeks. The company does state that the gel is popular and that it sells out quickly, and they offer a complete customer satisfaction money back guarantee.
